THE VETERAN'S SOLILOQUY.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, BY DEXTER SMITH.

I trace my genealogy to garden Paradaisical,
And date my origin from those of parentage Mosaical;
An evolution from the germ of earliest anatomy,
Surviving e'en the fittest growth—a protoplasmic atom, I;
My fathers-fore I sing in themes quite parallelogramical,
Reviewing all the palmy-day and tie-wig force dynamical;
I thus dilate upon my past and race so circumstantially,
Prepared against these modern days to struggle adamantially.
A regular old timer, I, and, without doubting, this it is Why I am oft accredited with salient eccentricities;
They try to choke me off, but I rebuke their superciliousness,
And will not listen to their charge that I'm a prey to biliousness;
So I go on endeavoring to point out incongruities—
In their so-termed progressive plan I find crude superfluities;
Then give to me the good old ways so free from meretriciousness,
Thus mem'ry may to life impart a flavor of deliciousness.
Give me the halo that surrounds the light of anthropology,
Likewise the dubiousness of dates in modern archæology;
From out the crater of my mind flow lava-facts Vesuvian;
In life I nothing novel find in that it's postdeluvian:
I scatter modern theories like a fever-hunting Boreas,
And cast my gaze on ancient days whose bright phantasmagorias
Evoke the raptures of a mind not clouded by the present one,
When ev'ry man and ev'ry thing's a wholly evanescent one!

THE BEARDED WOMAN'S REVENGE.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.

"Well, well, where did you come from? Drop down out of a balloon, or crawl up out of an airthquake? Glad to see you, hany rate. Lookin' naterel as a picture, so, I swum."

"How did I get out in this regin? tell you all about it; it's as interestin' as a play in a dime museum; you are just the chap to write it.

"By the way, that disseriuting of the kpartship of Barnim & Company wus a soot of exprise to me, and to think that Jim Bailey is back in the bizness, that beats me.

"As I was going to say before I switched, I started out last Spring as an accessory to a sideshow connectened with a ten cent circus. The principal fetur was a bearded woman, and the wind blew money through her whiskers, you can bet. Next to Rube the big snaixe, she was the drawinest card I ever seed, an' I've been personally acquantered with all the freaks, from Hannah Battersby to the two headed cow.

"That war one of the currinest hitch ups on record, when fat Hannah and the living skeleton doubled up. But I'm off the track agen. To resoom:

"Our boss door talker was John Blue, and he blew to some purpose when he got to that door, and more especially when he dilated onto the bearded woman; then he did talk!

"I knowed Johnny Blue for many a day, from a kid up. He begun a grinding the organ, and he was one of the best men that ever speiled onto that beautiful instrument.

"Whatever John Blue could do, there was one thing that he couldn't do, and he wanted to, orful. He couldn't raise whiskers, nary a whisk.

"Thar wurn't any more hair on his face than there is in the hollow of my hand, an' I s'pose that wur the reason that he tuk such a shine to her nibs. Why he just fell in love with her whiskers, fact, sohelpme!

"The sparking did not go on long before he talked business, and they were put in double harness by the preacher. And we had a regular jollification over the wedding. John set up the cake and something to wash it down with, the pressagent of the show made a pome out of his own head three feet long; I'm sorry that I can't reckeriect it. You see my memory isn't what it was since I was knocked on the head in a big clew down in Maine.

"After Blue got married tew the bearded woman he got sort of independent like an' dissatisfied; but he hung 'long till the Fall fairs set in an' then he made up his mind to go it on his own hook.

"The main guy had raised the sal twict, but that didn't satisfy John; he'd got his head full of big ideas. So he gets an outfit an' organized a show an' started out to take in the fairs and the gawks.

"I allers had a mighty likein' for John, an' when he said that he couldn't get along without me I made up my mind to join out.

"We had a right smart little trick. It was as neat as a pin, and beside her whiskers (John's wife) we had a Circashin beauty, an' edycated horg, a cage of monks and a few etcetterys.

"That Circash was a stunner, an' if the Sultan of Turkey had ever seen her he'd a bid high, you bet. She could o' broke me. Such black hair and black eyes, and such a masher. W-h-e-w!

"Talk about selling photographs, she could hardly sell them fast enough, the demand was so great. If I'd been a younger chap I'd a shined up to herself but she had no eyes for anyone except John Blue, which was mighty unfortinit.

"I seed how it was a goin', but what was the use of my putting in my oar? Her whiskers she got on, too, as I could see by her axyaus looks, as she was sad like and watched the goin's on.

"John he kept payin' more an' more tenshuns to the Circash as time went on, an', the wive's eyes bein' open, some unpleasant conversation in the family followed.

"The Circash blossomed out in new togs, the very latest style. She just beat a fashion plate, she did, all holler; an' diamonds, when she set on the stage rastling photographs she looked for all the world like Queen Victoree on dress parade.

"That just made me sick! But not so much as a stick of candy or a posey for Her Whiskers. Perhaps his wife wurn't mad or nothin'; she was just bileing, red hot; I kept mum, but says I to myself: 'Hold on now, purty quick sumthin' will bust'.

"It begun to get kinder cool; 'twas crawling along late in the Fall. I reckerlect it better on account of its 'fecting my rheumatism so, the fust frosts allers do; when one morning John Blue came parading up to the show with her royal highness togged out in a sealskin that almost trailed on to the ground.

"You should have seen his wife when they swept into the sideshow. Mrs. Blue was so mad that she

CHARLES ERIN VERNER, ACTOR.

"In course people will talk—well I should remark, and it got whispered around the sideshow how as the Circash was blowin' in John Blue to an amazing extent.

"Any durned fool could see that. I seed that, too, myself, but said nothing. I knew which side my bread was buttered on, but I did ache to put a flea into the boss' ear.

"Things grew wuss and wuss just as they do in the novels. John grew more an' more attentive to the Pride of the Harem, that's what they called the hussy on the painting. Great Scott! would you bieve it? John Blue got to 'scortin' the Circash to and from the show an' letin' his wife go it alone.

"An' such a wife; she was a regular gold mine! You see John was completely infatyated with the si-reen; that's what you call 'em, I believe, and he just put up the money for the Circash's adornment like a sailor on shore after a three years' cruise.

"What did she do? why in course she kicked. She'd hadter been meeker than Moses if she hadn't. John's wife did expostulate—gewhilkins what a word—but she might just as well have talked to a stone fence.

"Some folks when they are sot in their ways air sot, and he was sot, clean dead gone on the Pride of the Harem.

"'I've no idee how much John blowed in on her nibs, but it was a power of dust. He didn't let alone ginning her jewelry an' silks an' satins an' sech, but I'm blowed if the gill didn't take to presentin' her with candy and flowers.

pulled a handful of her whiskers out by the roots, an' her eyes blazed like a house a fire.

"Says I to myself, confidentially, there'll be a row in the Blue family before night. They did have a cowtillion, an' Her Whiskers spoke a piece as long as the remarks of Dan'l Webster at the Bunker Hill monument.

"That didn't do no good. John never dropped; not till the next morning; then he fell.

"The next day the Pride of the Harem was not to be found. She'd scooted, got up an' got, jumped the show along with Monkey Jim, a red headed, freckled, green eyed feller that turned the organ and cared for the monks.

"Talk about a sensation in camp! She had dusted, loaded down with jewelry, fine rigging and a big boodle. Didn't she play John Blue for a sucker, though? Served him perfectly right, that's what I say.

"Right on top of this Her Whiskers couldn't be found anywhere. We searched high and low, and her husband, who was now quite worrit, joined in. He was orful skeered, an' I was glad of it.

"Wherever we went we could get no intelligence of her nibs, an' I an' the rest as well had 'bout come to the conclusion that she'd suicided. For there's no knowin' what a woman will do, or a man either, for that matter, when she gits real desprit.

"'You'd better rake the river,' suggested one fellow.

"'Get a man to ring a bell, an' offer a reward,' said I.

"'Put an ad. in THE CLIP.,' said another.

"You see, we was completely dumbfounded, and John Blue was the most upset of any of us; perfectly nateral like. His face was long as my arm; fact, and had the expression of a leading mourner at a funeral.

"Truth is, I guess that John would have liked to have been a corpse right then and there, he felt so pesky cheap.

"He said, with a big sigh that run clear down into his boots:

"'Well, boys, I guess I'll never see her again. I've been a first prize fool, and it serves me right.'

"That very minit Her Whiskers came out of a barber shop. We all recko'nized her by her dress at the first glance. She came toward us an' we held back as John rushed to embrace her.

"Just as he got in front of her she up with her veil. By jiminy she was clean shaved, not a hair on her face, an' she shrieked like a play actress.

"Behold, base villain, this is my revenge!"

"It was very theatre and very sad. From that day to this she has raised no more beard, but she sticks to John Blue wuss nor a leech. She's his lawful wife an' she just keeps him hustlin' to support her."

FOREVER TRUE.

If stars be risen or stars be set,
There's ever a milky way;
If love be young or love be old,
It's ever the same they say;
But stars are brighter when the moon is new,
And love is nobler when forever true!

WHY CUPID IS A BOY BABY.

"Mother, is a Cupid a girl baby or a boy baby?"

"A boy baby, Johnny."

"Why hain't there no girl baby Cupids?"

"I don't know."

"I guess it's 'cause they re afeard to fly around and shoot bows and arrers."—Kentucky State Journal.

THAT OLD-TIME CIRCUS SHOW.

I.

When the circus come to our town 'bout forty years ago,
And pitched its tent in Squire Tood's lot, where taters used to grow,
I wuz a lad in trowserloons, but I had often heerd
The old folks talk about the chaps wot in the ring appeared,
And rid the skittish hosses jest as easy and as slick
As if they wuz a beetle-bug a-straddle of a brick.
So I said to my old daddy: "Pop, kin I go to the show?"
"Why, sartin', Tom, of course," sez he; "the hull of us shall go."
So when the circus come along we met it on the way,
And walked 'longside the charyit to hear the brass-band play,
And we watched them as they pitched their tent, and when the evenin' come
The cats and dogs wuz all we left of livin' things to hum,
For we all went to the circus, and we saw the bully show
Inside the tent in Squire Todd's lot, where taters used to grow.

II.

I saw the knights and ladies fair when with a dandy swing
They cantered in all finified, and rid around the ring;
I saw the barebacked rider as he went it all alone
And stuck on like court-plaster, and his name was Eaton Stone.
And I saw the hoopin' Injun, with his arrer and his bow
And his tommyhawk and scalpin'-knife, around the circle go;
And I saw the summersetters jump as only they could jump
And come down safely, though sometimes they come down in a lump;
And I saw the cunnin' monkey mount upon the pony's back
And go it jest like lightnin' all around the tan-bark track;
And the mule—hoop la!—you'd ought to seen how lively he did kick
When a feller tried to ride 'im. And he made the feller sick,
For he bucked and bucked, and kicked and kicked, until he sent that chap
A-kitin' 'way across the ring where he fetched up all ker-slap.
I tell you, there wuz lots o' fun at that air circus show
I went and see in Squire Todd's lot, where taters used to grow.

III.

The clown—I think his name was Dan—Dan Rice—yes, that was it—
He made me snicker till I thought I'd go into a fit
When he got off that funny song 'bout callin' him a quiz
And callin' him a pry. You see, it made my young blood siz;
But when a big, black monkey—'most as big as Uncle Jack—
Went scootin' up and down the pole, and slidin' on his back
Along the danglin' ropes without a single slip or miss,
Then hopped around among the gals and giv Sal Jones a kiss,
I never thought I'd see sich things at any kind o' show
Inside a tent in Squire Todd's lot, where taters used to grow.

IV.

I had been to Gen'ral Muster two or three times 'long with dad,
And heerd the fifes a fifin' and the drums a drummin' mad;
I had seen the colors flyin' and the boys from many farms
Obey the mighty Colonel when he shouted: "Shoulder arms!"
I had seen 'em march as best they could, and keep step with the tune
The fifers and drummers played about that old Zip Coon;
I had seen 'em turn and wheel about, and try to do jest so,
As if they all wuz up to snuff, jest like that old Jim Crow;
I had seen 'em stack their guns and go and take a leetle rest,
By seekin' in the tavern consolation for the breast;
But this was nothin's when compared to that air circus show
I went and see in Squire Todd's lot, where taters used to grow.

V.

I've hooped it 'round the world since then, and I've been down to York;
I've done the Bowery museums, and scooped in Central Park;
And I've seen Serry Burnhard and the Jarsey Lily too,
And took in Henery Irvin', with his features all a-screw;
I've seen that feller, Dixey, as he traveled on his shape,
And made the awjunce clap and roar, with laughter all a-gape;
I've seen "The Banker's Darter," and I've felt my eyes grow wet
O'er Clarry Morris, when she played that "Multon" piece, you bet;

I've seen the hull of them air folks, and I must truly say
That they air jest sum punkins when they git right up and play;
But I've never seen the equal of that old-time circus show
That pitched its tent in Squire Todd's lot, where taters used to grow.

C. H. Hoyt's New Play—"A Run of Luck" Fails to Inspire.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 2.—Annie Pixley at the Baldwin did not do the business last week that she anticipated. She continues this week with same bill.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—"A Run of Luck" has not caught on, and the house will be closed 9 and the company disbanded. The audiences of late have been very poor. After the closing of the house, improvements and repairs will be made. The re-opening will occur next month.

BUSH STREET THEATRE.—The Hallen & Hart Co. opened their two weeks' season last night to an overflowing house.

ALCAZAR.—This house was closed last evening for the final rehearsal of "A Midnight Bell," which will be sung for the first time tonight. The play is by Chas. H. Hoyt, and is a radical departure from his farce comedies. J. P. Ennis represents Mr. Hoyt's business interests in the venture. The play is in four acts, and is a sketch of New England life. Its object is to delineate New England scenes and characters, and the state of society in Yankee land. The first act shows the home of the well-to-do New Englander. The second illustrates the country schools, and satirizes the school committee, who hold the position through influence. The third act deals with the "sewing society." The fourth presents a rehearsal of the local musical organization, the village church choir. The characters sketched are prominent types of a New England town. There is the local great man, who is one of the selectmen, school committeeman, highway surveyor, sheriff, deacon of the church, etc.; there are the young clergyman, the schoolmistress, the cashier of the bank, who is the business man for everybody; there is the boy who builds fires in the schoolhouse and reads dime novels when the teacher's back is turned; the minister's sister, full of life, and therefore the detested of the swarm of elderly females, who all want to marry the minister, and who devote their time to pet dogs and cats and to the retailing of the petty tattle and gossip of the town. Incidental to the play is the singing of the school children in the second act, the old-fashioned country dance at the sewing society, and the rehearsal of the old hymns by the choir. The piece will be mounted in fine style, and cast as follows: Napier Keene, Jos. R. Grismer; Rev. John Bradbury, C. C. Maubury; Squire Alcott, Hobart Bosworth; Ned Alcott, Geo. Trader; Martin Tripp, Chas. Bates; Doctor Wing, C. H. Hadley; Ezekiel Shover, Edgar Weir; Dot Bradbury, Phoebe Davies; Nora Fairford, Ethel Brandon; Miss Lizzie Webster, Mrs. Chas. THE NEW YORK STAGE.

Miss Emery, afterwards known as Mrs. Burroughs, made her debut in this city during the Winter of 1827-8. The English press pronounced her "the actress of the day." For a while she attracted crowded houses, and her acting elicited the warmest encomiums. in a short time her popularity began to wane, until finally she could get no engagements. Her elegant home was taken from her, the furniture sold at auction and she was obliged to part with her valuable wardrobe and quit the stage. She was, indeed, so poor that she was compelled to hire a garret room in the house of a poor family in Anthony Street, and was frequently found in Theatre Alley, back of the old Park Theatre, begging a few shillings from the actors. At last (1832) she took up her lodgings at the Five Points. One day she had a quarrel with a drunken neighbor, and she was brutally assaulted. Forced into the street, she staggered towards the Market House, where she died. A cart was procured, and she was carried off to Bellevue Hospital. She was the largest woman ever seen on the American stage.

The season of 1828-9 commenced Sept. 1, 1828. During the season engagements were played by J. W. Wallack Sr., Mme. Celeste, Clara Fisher, Maywood and other popular stars. Weber's opera, "Oberon," was first performed in America Sept. 3, 1828.

Emma Wheatley made her first appearance Sept. 26, 1828, as one of the Children in the Wood. Before she was thirteen years of age she acted Julia in "The Hunchback," June 25, 1834, for her mother's benefit. On Sept. 9, 1837, she married James Mason (a son of the president of the Chemical Bank), and left the stage; but, owing to her husband having lost his means, she, after an absence of nine years, re-appeared at this theatre Jan. 11, 1847, as Juliet. She appeared for the last time on the stage in the Spring of that year, as Julia in "The Hunchback." She died on Long Island, July 16, 1854. Julia Wheatley, an elder sister, had appeared at the Park, when but six years of age, as a dancer. She possessed a rich and powerful voice, well cultivated. She appeared May 6, 1833—when only fourteen years of age—as Semira, in "Artaxerxes," with great success. In 1835 she was singing at the National Theatre, Church Street, with an Italian opera company. June 1, 1840, she married E. H. Miller, a wealthy gentleman of this city, and retired into private life. Mrs. S. Wheatley, formerly Mrs. Williams, appeared here May 17, 1815, as Letitia Hardy.

William Wheatley made his debut here Oct. 13, 1826, as Albert, in "William Tell," the late W. C. Macready playing the hero. Mr. Wheatley was then not quite ten years of age. He afterwards became one of the best light comedians on the American stage. He was the first person to raise the American flag on the soil of Nicaraugua. From August, 1853, to 1858, he was manager of the Arch Street Theatre, Philadelphia. In 1862 he was one of the Wallack-Davenport Co. He became lessee of Niblo's Garden July 21, 1862; retired from the stage Aug. 31, 1868, and died in this city Nov. 3, 1876.

John R. Scott made his debut July 2, 1829, appearing as Malcolm for the benefit of Junius Brutus Booth.

The season of 1828-9 at the Park closed Aug. 17, 1829, with a benefit to Mrs. Gilfert. The season of 1829-30 opened Sept. 2, 1829, under more favorable auspices, as the opposition of the other theatres had been removed in a great measure, Gilfert of the Bowery being dead, the Lafayette being burnt, and the Chatham being sunk so low in reputation as only to attract poor audiences.

On Oct. 17, 1829, Edwin Forrest commenced his first engagement here. He opened in "Damon and Pythias," and successfully appeared as Hamlet, Lear, Iago (to Cooper's Othello), Macbeth, Brutus and Carwin. On Nov. 15 he took his first benefit, when, for the first time on any stage, was presented John A. Stone's "Metamora," cast as follows:

Metamora	Edwin Forrest	Lord Fitzarnold	P. Richings
Sir Arthur	Chapman	Guy of Godalman	Woodhull
Horatio	Barry	Errington	Langton
Church	T. Placide	Wolfe	Nixen
Tramp	Povey	Holyoke	Wheatley
Katsenne	Blakeley	Child	Miss Parker
Oceana	Mrs. Hilson	Nameokee	Mrs. Sharpe

"Rip Van Winkle," the reconstructed version of which J. H. Hackett made so popular, was first played in New York April 22, 1830, Mr. Hackett acting the part of Rip.

This season, which closed Aug. 3, 1830, was one of the most successful, artistically and pecuniarily, on record, no fewer than forty-three new pieces having been produced, and engagements played by all the best actors in the country. The season of 1830-1 opened Sept. 1, 1830, when Charles Kean made his first appearance in New York, doing Richard III. Kean's next visit to this country was in September, 1839, when he opened at the National Theatre, Church Street. In the Summer of 1845, accompanied by his wife (Ellen Tree), he again visited America. They returned to Europe in the Summer of 1847. He re-appeared in New York at the Broadway Theatre (corner Broome Street), April 26, 1865, in "Henry VIII." After several months' sojourn here, they returned to England. He died at Salt Hill, Eng., Jan. 22, 1868.

Joseph Burke made his American debut here Nov. 22, 1830, as Young Norval, led the orchestra in the overture to "Guy Mannering," and concluded by acting Dr. O'Toole. He was called "The Irish Roscius." During his engagement he played Sir Abel Handy, Richard III, Shylock, Master Socrates, Dr. Pangloss, Looney McTwotter, Dennis Bulgruddery, Jooson, etc. In addition to leading varjous overtures, he often played solos on the violin and sang humorous descriptive songs. His success was great. He played nine nights, and the receipts averaged over $1,000 nightly. He retired from the stage, but soon reappeared in the concert room as a violinist.

This season closed July 4, 1831, but a Summer season was commenced July 6, and continued until the 29th, after which a French opera company gave performances for a few weeks. The season of 1831-2 commenced Aug. 29, 1831, when "Cinderella" and "The Dumb Savoyard and the Monkey" were performed.

On Sept. 13, 1831, Joshua R. Anderson, was announced to appear for the first time in America, at the Park Theatre. The character chosen for his debut was that of Harry Bertram. Owing to a private quarrel and some indiscreet remarks made on his voyage from England—which had been magnified by the opposite party into a national insult—his appearance on the stage was the signal for another such scene as Edmund Kean had passed through, a few years previously. The performance went on pantomimically, and the next day an appeal was made to the people through the the papers, which, it was thought, would have the effect of quieting their passions; but on attempting to perform on the 15th, another mob assembled—not only within the theatre, but in the streets adjoining—and every attempt to quiet the difficulty only resulted in the most ignominious treatment of the mediator. Mr. Anderson was hooted at and pelted with every kind of imaginable missile. Manager Simpson came upon the stage, and, after waiting about twenty minutes, he at last obtained an opportunity to speak. He announced the withdrawal of Mr. Anderson. Master Burke then appeared, and, with his violin, succeeded in calming and diverting the still excited passions of the audience.

John Sinclair made his American debut Sept. 24, 1831, as Prince Orlando in "The Cabinet." His eldest daughter, Catherine, married Edwin Forrest. He returned to England and died at Tivoli, Margate, Sept. 22, 1857.

The season of 1832-3 was one of the most memorably brilliant of its career. The Ravels, Charles and Fanny Kemble, Halleck, Wallack, Yankee Hill, Forrest, Chas. Kean, Cooper, and other actors of lesser note appeared.

The Ravel Family came to this country in 1832. They consisted of ten performers: Jean, his wife and little daughter; Dominique, eldest child of Mme. Lonati, a widow whom Gabriel married in Boston; Gabriel, Antoine and Jerome; Emily Payne, whom Jean Ravel married some years later; Louis Marzetti, then only nine years of age, and Jean Pebernard, a juvenile prodigy, afterwards disabled by an accident to his foot. (He went to Cincinnati, where he became a shoemaker). They made their first appearance in America in July, 1832. Their performances consisted of rope dancing, herculean feats and pantomimic ballets in four parts, in which the young Gabriel Ravel sustained the principal characters. After a brief tour, they returned to England, but reappeared here from October, 1836, until July, 1837. They then paid another visit to Europe, returning here in 1842. At the destruction of Niblo's Garden, in September, 1846, they lost $5,000. They again visited America in 1848, with Francois and the Martinetti Family. In 1849, Antoine and Jerome returned to America. Paul Brillant, Josephine Bertin and the Lehmanns were in the troupe. Gabriel joined the company here in 1851. Francois and Gabriel returned to Europe in October, 1860.

On Dec. 7, 1832, Edwin Forrest produced "The Gladiator." He played another engagement here in September, 1836, to overwhelming houses. He received $500 per night for his services. He bade farewell to his countrymen in "Othello." Some of the tickets were sold at auction, and brought $25 each. Mr. Forrest first appeared on the London stage Oct. 16, 1836, at the Drury Lane. On his entree, the whole house arose and gave him "three times three." He was married to Catherine Sinclair during this visit. He returned to America in August, 1837, and opened at this theatre. The receipts for the first night exceeded $4,000. "Jack Cade" (originally billed as "Aylmere, or the Kentish Rebellion," and the work of R. T. Conrad, of Philadelphia) was produced for the first time May 24, 1841, with the following cast:

Jack Cade	Edwin Forrest	Kate	Miss McBride
Clifford	Jas. Murdoch	Lord Say	W. Wheatley
Buckingham	A. Andrews	Friar Lacy	Nickenson
Wat Worthy	Chippendale	Mowbry	C. W. Clarke
Courtney	W. A. Chapman	Jack Straw	Bellamy
Dick Pembroke	Fisher	Archbishop	Bedford
Marianne	Mrs. Geo. Jones	Widow Cade	Mrs. Wheatley

Forrest's second appearance in London was on Feb. 17, 1845, at the Princess' Theatre. Through the influence of Macready (who was jealous of Forrest), men visited the theatre and hissed him lustily. He was also assailed by the press, and Bulwer refused to allow him to do "The Lady of Lyons" and "Richelieu," as Macready had been successful in those plays. He returned to America and opened at this theatre Aug. 31, 1847, in "King Lear." A severe hoarseness compelled him to withdraw for several nights. He reappeared Oct. 27 in "Metamora" and on the 28th in "The Gladiator," which terminated his engagement. He opened at the Broadway Theatre, Aug. 28, 1848, as Othello. This engagement lasted until Sept. 22. On April 23, 1849, he opened a three weeks' engagement, and it was during that time that the Astor Place Opera House riot took place. He separated from his wife May 1, 1849. The divorce case ended in January, 1852. Feb. 9, 1852, he reappeared in this city, and for sixty-nine nights the house was crowded. His last appearance on the stage was before the public as a reader, in Boston, Mass., Saturday, Nov. 30, 1872. He died in Philadelphia, Dec. 12, 1872, and was buried Dec. 16, in St. Paul's Church graveyard.

In personal appearance Edwin Forrest was tall, dignified, grave, majestic, courteous in speech, affable in manner; in thought, feeling, and action, he was the gentleman. He was probably the best scholar on the American stage. His vast erudition was acquired during his long retirement, some time after his domestic troubles. There is little worth reading in English literature that he did not study. A will of iron, a mind susceptible to impression as new-fallen snow, and a memory retentive as marble, applied in solitude solely to study, could not fail to make a scholar. As a Shakespearian analysist he had no living rival. He was master of three or four languages. His voice was of a two-fold kind—deep, rich and powerful, coming naturally from the chest—high and thin from the throat. Coleridge said of his father, that "to see him act was like reading Shakespeare by lightning." The electricity that shook and fired human hearts has not perished; the bolt not shivered until it had left a flame behind in a living bosom. Forrest caught that spirit which could play amid the tempest and whirlwind of passion with fitful and rushing gleams; but he also had that purer spirit which throws a verdure over the human heart, and a light of peace and beauty on the holy quiet of its affections.

Fanny Kemble made her debut Sept. 18, 1832, as Bianca in "Fazio."

Mme. Mangeon made her last appearance in this city Jan. 31, 1833. Her American debut took place here Sept. 28, 1826, as Floretta in the opera of "The Cabinet." She was a sister of Mme. Feron, the vocalist, and was related to the late J. M. Maddox, manager of the Princess' Theatre, London, who was the business agent of Mme. Feron during her tour of this country. Mrs. Mangeon had a son whom she forced upon the stage as a youthful prodigy, June 7, 1832, at the Bowery Theatre. Like the son of John St. Luke, a year or two later Master Mangeon "took" Richard III. She returned to England Jan. 20, 1832, and left the stage. She opened a cigar store on Regent Street, London, and afterwards kept a millinery store.

"Fra Diavolo" was first sung in America on June 20, 1833, in English here. Peter Richings performed the character of Beppo.

Tyrone Power, the Irish comedian, made his first appearance in America Aug. 28, 1833 (the opening night of the season), as Sir Patrick O'Plenipo and Teddy the Tiler. His next appearance was in 1836, and again in 1839. His last appearance was on March 9, 1841, as Gerald Pepper and Morgan Rattler. He was lost at sea on the steamship President, which sailed from this city March 24, 1841. He was about five feet eight inches in height, with light hair and complexion, blue eyes and a compact figure, inclining to stoutness. If Mr. Power has ever been equaled on our stage in the character of the Irish gentleman, he unquestionably never had a rival, or a competitor in parts of lower grade. He was one of the sweetest singers ever heard on the stage. His voice was of the finest quality as regards the clearness and melodious softness of its tones.

JUST READ THIS CAREFULLY.

From Our Council Bluffs, Ia., Correspondent.

I have been reading with considerable interest at different times the reports made by CLIPPER correspondents in reference to the circulation of THE CLIPPER in comparison with that of other theatrical and sporting papers in their respective cities. I think I can make a good showing for THE CLIPPER in this city, also. Out of a half dozen news stands here, there is not a single New York theatrical paper sold, with the exception of ONE copy of The ——, which your correspondent takes for the purpose of hearing the "other side" of the question.

Again, I notice among the editorials of The —— under the heading "We Score Again," an article to the effect that THE CLIPPER was one day late in getting out the week of the blizzard. That is false. I rise to remark that THE CLIPPER arrived here Friday evening, as usual, while The —— showed up Monday afternoon, a week old, as usual.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL NOTES.

— This is a pretty good likeness of Gracie Emmett, a soubrette who has of late seasons come well to the front. Her manner is quaint, her dancing excellent and her humor uncommonly natural. We shall certainly hear very high praise of her by and by.

— W. J. Scanlan's season closes May 26 at Toledo, O. R. B. Mantell's closes late in May. Mr. Scanlan's next season opens at Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 3; Mr. Mantell's at the Boston Globe Aug. 7; Rose Coghlan's Oct. 1 at Newark, N. J. These are the plans of Aug. Pitou's stars.

— The suit of Hannah Cross against Sheridan Shook for $2,000 damages was decided at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., March 22, when the plaintiff received a verdict of $200. While passing Mr. Shook's Summer residence in Red Hook, last Spring a large English mastiff belonging to Mr. Shook ran into the road and frightened the horse Mrs. Cross was driving, causing him to run away. The suit was for injuries received by the lady.

— In 1887, Emil Thomas, a German actor, then playing at the Thalia Theatre, this city, signed a contract to play in Chicago, Ill., and Milwaukee, Wis. In Chicago he was to receive one-third of the receipts and in Milwaukee $150 a night. Shortly after signing he did not like the terms, and notified the Chicago agents that he refused to keep his agreement. Last May, when about to depart for Germany, he was served with a summons in a suit for damages. The suit was allowed to go by default, and on March 23 in Jersey City, N. J., a Sheriff's jury gave a verdict against the actor for $2,677.

— Walter J. Price, a stockholder of the New York Concert Company, limited, owning the Casino, brought suit on March 24, against Albert Aronson, treasurer of the company, for an accounting of sixty shares of the stock of the company, which Mr. Price claims the latter has wrongfully converted to his use.

— Robert Grau has nearly completed arrangements for the Spring and Summer season of his opera company. Their season opens May 14, and a fortnight later they will give the inaugural performance at W. H. Friday's new Summer Theatre, Brooklyn, N. Y., where an extended season of light opera continues. The principal feature of their repertory will be the first production in English of "Genevieve de Brabant."

— Henry Irving, Ellen Terry and Edith Wardell (daughter of Miss Terry) returned to England on the morning of March 28. Night of 26, after the performance at Daly's Theatre, this city, they were entertained at Delmonico's, at a supper party given in their honor by Manager Daly.

— Mabel Moulton joined the Edith Sinclair "A Box of Cash" Co., for the balance of the season, at Toledo, O., April 2.

Sargent Aborn will immediately reorganize for the Summer season. Mr. Byrdsall will remain here to engage people for his own company which will begin the next season Sept. 5, in Brooklyn, N. Y.

— Trouble has broken out in Pat Rooney's Co. between the star and his daughter, Katie. Miss Rooney left Pat Rooney's company to join the "One of the Bravest" Co. in Easton, Pa., last week, which greatly incensed him. He followed her to Easton, leaving his own company in Syracuse, N. Y. Just before the performance March 27, Katie was arrested charged with "incorrigible conduct," but immediately furnished bail and was allowed to proceed. Later Katie had Pat arrested for breach of the peace. Hotel Keeper Walter, of Easton, is Miss Rooney's custodian until after the trial is held. On 30 Mr. Rooney told his lawyers that he would discontinue the legal fight for the possession of Katie. The writ of habeas corpus to compel the manager of "One of the Bravest" Co. to bring her to court was then dismissed, and she was discharged from the custody of Mr. Walter.

While here Mr. Thompson will personally superintend the preparations for the production of his new piece and the presentation of "The Old Homestead" at the Academy, which will begin Aug. 30 instead of Sept. 5 as was originally intended. PHILADELPHIA'S NEW THEATRE.

T. F. Kelly, of the National, Becomes Its Lessee for Ten Years.

The New Grand Opera House, at Broad Street and Montgomery Avenue, which has been leased for ten years by Manager Kelly, of the National Theatre, was thrown open for inspection last week, when the finishing touches were put on by Architect George Plowman, who designed the house and personally superintended the erection for Mr. Betz, the brewer. The new theatre is pronounced the finest piece of work ever turned out by Mr. Plowman, and for size, comfort and beauty equals any theatre building in the city. Its rich gothic arch on Broad Street will shortly be adorned by a large double cathedral front of stained glass, which will surmount the stained glass transoms of three immense double doors of walnut and beveled plate glass. These doors open into a marble tiled vestibule 50ft. square, lit and ornamented by handsome electroliers, with incandescent burners and stained glass globes. An immense lobby, the whole width of the building, 150ft., and 20ft. deep, is approached through glass doors by a short flight of steps, and is separated from the auditorium by a glass partition of diamond panes richly jeweled. The lobby, like the auditorium, is carpeted with bright red ingrain thickly padded. The auditorium is a vast stretch of bright red carpet and commodious and richly upholstered opera chairs. The broad centre aisle, 8ft. wide, sweeps from the lobby to the orchestra railing in a graceful drop of 7½ft. pitch, unbroken by a single step. On either side, reaching to the spacious side aisles, are 800 opera chairs, in rows 3½ft. apart, giving long limbed men a chance to enjoy the performance with comfort, and thirsty men a chance to enjoy the intermissions without incommoding their neighbors. Over the parquet circle is a broad balcony containing 1,200 chairs similar to those on the first floor. It is supported by heavy iron columns finished with gold. There are four immense boxes, each capable of comfortably accommodating 20 people, and possessing a full view of the stage from every part, as does every seat in the house. The decorations are Anglo Japanese, the walls being decorated with papier mache designs, on which the colored rays of hundreds of incandescent lights create the most beautiful and fantastic effects. The boxes have heavy silk Japanese curtains. The roof is peak-shaped and above the balcony is perfted with Louvre sashes on each side, through which thorough ventilation is obtained. The ceilings are finished in light blue Japanese designs, with gold satin seams, and are dotted with large gilt stars, from each of which an incandescent light shoots its brilliant rays. The stage is 150ft. wide, 58ft. deep, and 70ft. high, and capable of accommodating the largest spectacular shows ever given in Philadelphia. It possesses all the modern improvements and full sets of scenery. There are 16 dressing rooms, comfortably furnished and elegantly finished. Each dressing room contains steam heat, incandescent lights and hot and cold water. On the Montgomery Avenue end of the stage is a large and richly furnished greenroom. In the rear of the building, entirely separated from it, is an engine house, containing two one hundred horse power engines and an electric light plant, consisting of two incandescent dynamos of five hundred light capacity each, and one arc dynamo of four hundred light capacity. The interior of the building will be lighted by one thousand incandescent lights, and the exterior surrounded by twenty arc lights. The switch board is so constructed that the incandescent lights can be lowered or raised at will. The footlights are also incandescent burners, and, as the heat will be conveyed by steam pipes from a boiler house 200ft. away, there will not be a spark of fire in the building. The drop curtain and border is the work of Russell Smith. The subject is a large group painting of Grecian prisoners obtaining their liberty by reciting from Euripides at Agrigentum. The scenery has been painted by Joseph Clare of New York. To the left of the vestibule, on Broad Street, is Mr. Kelly's private office, a sitting and reading room, and a large smoking room. On the right is a commodious lady's parlor, with handsomely finished toilet rooms. The northwest corner will be occupied as a drug store. The theatre has the best means of egress of any building in the city. There are three broad exits from the auditorium and one from the stage on Montgomery Avenue, besides fourteen double windows, easily opened, running to the ground, and eighteen double windows back of the balcony. There are three large exits on to Broad Street, in addition to the hall windows in the second story. Mr. Kelly pays an annual rental of $12,000. The prices will be popular. The house will be formally opened by the National Opera Co. April 9.

NEW YORK CITY.

Review of the Week.—Holy Week, dreaded among managers as it has been from time immemorial, turned out a trifle more prosperously than had been anticipated. At a number of city theatres business was actually profitable. .... At these theatres there was no change of bill: DALY'S ("A Midsummer Night's Dream"), HARRIGAN'S PARK ("Pete"), the BIJOU ("The Pearl of Pekin"), CASINO ("Erminie"), BROADWAY ("La Tosca"), LYCEUM ("The Wife"), STANDARD ("Paul Kauvar"), MADISON SQUARE ("Heart of Hearts"), DOCKSTADER'S (Corinne in "Arcadia"), WALLACK'S ("Money") and the FIFTH AVENUE. At the last named theatre R. B. Mantell's two weeks' engagement in "Monbars" closed to fairly good receipts 31. The run of "Heart of Hearts" at the Madison Square ended on the same date. It had been on that stage since Jan. 16. "Pete's" 150th performance at Harrigan's was celebrated with due eclat and floral trimmings night of 29. On 31 Corinne gave her final performance of "Arcadia" at Dockstader's, and the city run of "Paul Kauvar" terminated at the Standard with an announced benefit to Steele Mackaye .....Week stands ended 31 were these: Margaret Mather, in her repertory, at NIBLO'S, to only fair business; D. E. Bandmann at the ACADEMY, in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde;" the Howard Athenæum Co. to very good houses at the STAR, "A Celebrated Case" at POOLE'S, Kate Claxton's Co. at the HARLEM COMIQUE, the "Hoodman Blind" Co. at the PEOPLE'S, the "Evangeline" Co. at the GRAND, Winnett's "A Great Wrong" Co. at the WINDSOR, and "The Two Johns" Co. at JACOBS' THIRD AVENUE ... The first week of the indefinite engagement of Lacy & Arthur's "Still Alarm" Co. at the FOURTEENTH STREET drew quite good houses.....Ernst Possart and Gertrude Giers were continued stars at the THALIA all the week save Monday night, 26, when Ferd. Schultz benefited by a performance of "Die Schoene Helena" ("La Belle Helene"). This enabled Herr Possart to appear at the METROPOLITAN on that evening in "Die Raeuber" for the benefit of the German Poliklinik. The receipts were about $3,000. .....The performance of "Monbars" at the Fifth Avenue 28 was a benefit to Business-manager Charles Schroeder and Treasurer P. H. O'Connor, who netted about $2,000.....Souvenirs had been promised for the 100th performance of "Paul Kauvar" at the Standard 29, but none were given, the stage manager explaining that after they had been delivered at the theatre they were found to be unworthy the occasion. Changes were made in the cast of this piece during the week. Henry Holland, Nestor Lennon, Helen Mar and Lizzie Rochelle joined 26, and Carrie Turner closed 31 to rejoin the principal "Held by the Enemy" Co.

JACOBS' THIRD AVENUE THEATRE.—Tony Denier's "Humpty Dumpty" Co. opened the week of April 2 in fine style on Monday afternoon. The troupe is well made up, and enlists the services of many people whose specialties were most entertaining. It is the kind of entertainment appreciated by the patrons of this popular house, and a week of remunerative business should be the verdict. "The White Slave" will be here week of 9.

AT KOSTER & BIAL'S, for week commencing April 2, the following appeared: Archmere Sisters, in pleasing duets; Ramza and Arno, in eccentricities on the horizontal bars; Hamlin and Hamlin, in songs and dances of amusing qualities; Charles Eastwood, in vocalisms of Tyrolean attractiveness; Fontaine, in his sensational exploits on the tight wire; Beatrice Hamilton, in vocalisms of pleasing quality, and the marionette theatre and ballet company as a strong adjunct to the attractiveness of the currrent week's programme.

A MAMMOTH REVIVAL of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is likely to interest New Yorkers shortly. It may be at the Academy.

AT a musicale given by H. P. Butler at his house, 327 West Twenty-seventh street, this city, March 28, to a small number of invited guests, the banjo playing of W. G. Rush, a prominent teacher of South Brooklyn, was a prominent and entertaining feature.

"AMANUENSIS" is being made ready for production April 23 at Dockstader's Theatre, which will then return for a while to the comedy lines on which it was once run. But the new piece is described as "half extravaganza," and a remarkable company, capable of individual entertainment as well as the polite comedy work required, has been formed. Only one role remains to be filled, and the names indicate that Broadway is going to see, on one stage, a number of people whom the provinces get separately as stars. They include Mabel Sterling, Emma Maddern, Louise Sanford, Jennie Leland, Mattie Ferguson, Maurice Drew, Tony Farrell, W. Paul Bowne and George R. Edeson, the latter being the stage manager. "Amanuensis" will have scenery painted by Homer F. Emons, and mechanism by Benson Sherwood. The author is John Lynd of Washington. Brand new songs, with airs by Ellis Brooks, and words by Mr. Lynd and others, will be plenty. Indeed, the vocal features seem to be depended on largely for success. Conrow's orchestra from the burned Union Square has been secured. "Amanuensis" will run at Dockstader's as long as profitable, and, in case of success, will figure in next season's theatricals.

MINER'S EIGHTH AVENUE THEATRE.—Harry Williams' Co., headed by Harry Kernell, week of April 2 should play to big business throughout the week. The roster of the company is as follows: Harry Kernell, Shedman Bros., Leopold and Bunell, McShane Bros. and others. Week of 9: Rice's Syndicate of Vaudeville Stars, headed by Jack Dempsey.

JULIUS BERNSTEIN, a violinist, became insane at St. Patrick's Cathedral, March 27, and was taken to Bellevue Hospital. He had been engaged to play at the High Mass which was sung at the Cathedral Easter Sunday, and had attended the rehearsals, appearing in the best of spirits. He suddenly began acting strange. He broke his violin into fragments and threw them on the floor. He then broke his bow, took off his coat and ran into the street, where he removed his shoes. He was arrested and sent to the insane pavilion at Bellevue. Mr. Bernstein is a native of Germany, forty-five years old. He is married, and lives with his wife and several children at 42 Second Avenue. He is a brother of Adolph Bernstein, an interpreter of dance music, and another brother, Charles, a well known violinist. For many years he was the leading violinist in Neuendorff's orchestra at the Germania and Thalia Theatres. Subsequently he played in Theodore Thomas' orchestra. He was dissipated in his habits and became so erratic and unreliable that Mr. Thomas was compelled to discharge him. During the season of 1886-7 at the Metropolitan Opera House he was engaged as first violinist in the orchestra. He was discharged, and since had been unable to obtain permanent employment, as no leader cared to engage him. About a month ago he gave up drinking, since which time he had been morose and unsociable.

RAYMOND HOLMES, the comedian, has brought suit against the Forty-second Street Railway Co., for $5,000 damages. Three weeks ago, Mr. and Mrs. Holmes (Sidney Cowell) returned from a tour with "The Private Secretary" Co. and, with several other professionals, took a cross town car at Forty-second Street, for their home on the West side. Mr. Holmes asked the driver to let him off at the elevated road most convenient to his house. When the car stopped he found the Ninth Avenue road did not run after nine o'clock. He remonstrated with the driver for failing to inform him of this. The driver got angry and, grabbing Mr. Holmes by his coat, threw him on the ground. When Mr. Holmes escaped he went to the Lafayette Hotel, where a physician examined his wounds. The physician advised him to sue the company, and two days later he consulted a lawyer. Mr. Holmes has not yet recovered from his bruises.

JOSEF HOFMANN, the musical prodigy, with his father and mother, sailed for Europe March 28. They will spend the Summer in Eisenach, Ger., and then go to Berlin, where Josef's musical education will be completed.

H. C. JARRETT is back from London. He will be interested in Richard Mansfield's engagement at the London Lyceum.

THE EDWIN FORREST LODGE, Actors' Order of Friendship No. 2, has been incorporated with the following trustees: Frank W. Sanger, James E. Wilson, Charles S. Dickson, Louis Aldrich and Frank G. Cotter. Its objects are mutual benefit, to "improve and promote the interest of the theatrical profession, and to endeavor to suppress tyranny and imposition."

A. J. DAM on MAY 5, 1884, indorsed a note given by McKee Rankin and wife to Sheridan Shook. The note was not paid, and Mr. Shook sued Mr. Dam. March 27 he recovered a verdict of $2,183.

FRENCH & SANGER have secured "Joseph's Sweetheart" and "The Mystery of a Hansom Cab," and the latter may be done at the Broadway by and by.

W. H. MATTHEWS will control the Summer season at the Grand Opera House, opening June 1. He will, he says, put on old time successes.

A FIRE occurred at Madison Square Garden March 29. About seven o'clock P. M. some matches in an employe's pocket ignited and were thrown into some combustible material in the corner on the Madison Avenue side of the Garden. The promptness of the employes probably saved the building. Only the circus attaches were present. The damage was slight.

DURING the performance of the Howard Athenæum Co. at the Star Theatre, March 29, the report of a pistol shot was heard in the orchestra chairs near the stage, nearly creating a panic. Upon investigation it was found that Henry Parker of Hartford, Ct., had a revolver in his hip pocket, which accidentally went off. The ball passed through his trowsers and the chair he occupied, and imbedded itself in the floor. He was arrested. The revolver was afterwards found under the seat.

GEO. O. STARR, in charge of an invoice of rarities for the Barnum-Bailey Show, arrived here March 28 on the steamer Holland, which sailed 9 from London, Eng., making the passage in nineteen days. A number of animals and feathered novelties died during the passage. The Arab-Moor adjunct were landed the day of their arrival and taken to Madison Square Garden, where they made their first appearance in this country afternoon of April 2. It is one of the largest and most comprehensive troupes of the kind ever brought to this country, and in many ways differs from anything heretofore seen here. A fine troupe of Arabian stallions were on the ship. Mr. Starr, or, as he is now called, Starr Pasha, tells amusingly of his last trip across.

GILMORE'S BAND gave a concert at the Broadway Sunday night, April 1, to a full house.

THE NATIONAL OPERA CO. opened for a week at the Academy April 2 in "Nero." Next week the Campanini Opera Co. will sing "Otello" for the first time in America.

"PETE" nears its last nights at Harrigan's Park Theatre. Its run will close May 5.

MARGARET MATHER is playing her repertory at the Standard this week. Next week, J. M. Hill's Co. will play "A Possible Case" for the first time in this city. They will probably remain as long as the business warrants.

"SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER" it is now decided, will follow "Money" at Wallack's next week.

MINNIE PALMER is playing "My Sweetheart" at the Grand this week.

DALY'S THEATRE.—This is the last week of the season and of "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Next week the company go to Boston. The home theatre will be dark until April 16, when Rosina Vokes' Co. will open a month's engagement.

MURRAY & MURPHY'S Co., in "Our Irish Visitors," are at the Harlem Comique this week.

AT the Fifth Avenue Theatre, Clara Morris opened her fortnight's engagement, in "Renee de Moray," April 2, to a good house. After her Louis James and Marie Wainwright will play two weeks. William Harris will be of their support. With their engagement John Stetson's lease and management of this house will close. April 30 Eugene Tompkins will assume control, and will put in the "Natural Gas" Co. as his first attraction, the prior arrangements with J. M. Hill for the production of "A Possible Case" having been canceled—amicably, of course.

LUDWIG BARNAY, Ernst Possart and Gertrude Giers—a notable combination, truly—appeared in "Othello" at the Thalia April 2, to a packed house. Herr Possart played Iago. Manager Amberg's arrangement with Herr Barnay provides for his joint appearance with Herr Possart every night this week, and is the direct result of Herr Barnay's difficulty with Conried & Herrmann. The Thalia will probably be crowded at each performance of the distinguished pair.

ANDREW SHORT, an actor at one of the Bowery Museums, was in the Essex Market Police Court, charged by his wife, Nellie Short, with non-support. He was held in $300 bail to support her.

PEOPLE'S THEATRE.—Frank Mayo commenced a week's engagement here evening of April 2, to good attendance. "The Royal Guard" will be done the entire week. "Harbor Lights" is announced for 9. The Theatrical Mechanics' Association charity fund was enriched by the entertainment given Sunday evening. R. C. Hilliard, Steele Mackaye, E. O. Jepson,

BARNUM & BAILEY'S.—The fourth week of this show was ushered in April 2, with an entire change of programme, which included some striking novelties. The audience in the afternoon was large, and in the evening hundreds were obliged to stand. P. T. Barnum occupied his box, and evidently enjoyed the performance. J. A. Bailey was to be seen and quietly attended to the many details of entertaining friends and running the show. R. F. ("Tody") Hamilton was also on hand in great form. Louis E. Cooke was ever busy with his part of the show. Geo. O. Starr was in active charge of the Arabs, Moors, etc., and got away with Moorish, Arabic and French in great shape. Everybody was busy, and the show moved along without any hitches. The entree parade was one of the finest ever seen in this city. The Moors, Arabs, and dancing girls were prominent. The show is condensed and more interesting than during the first three weeks of its stay. The programme inaugurated Monday afternoon will run the remaining three weeks of the season here of the show. The arrangement of the Garden for the hippodrome has been well done, and the conveniences are comfortable in every particular. The performance as now carried out is: Alna Don Janata and her serpentine pets, Lilly Deacon and her troupe of educated equines, C. White and trained bear, William Ducrow with the troupe of Russian stallions, the leaping tournament, contortions by Harrison and Wentworth, Tenebra Yiaschi and Max Hugo in Japanese exploits, the Stirk Family in bicycle excellences, Emile Sells in feats of contortion, Miss Varde in exhibitions of jaw strength, C. White and his trained dog and goat, H. Corsa and his educated seals, F. Watson in a comical melange with dog and monkey, Annie Carroll in principal equestrianisms, M. Lowande and son in a carrying equestrian act, Stirk Sisters in juggling, Lemaire and wife in rapier practices, Misses O'Brien and Gilbert in dexterous impalements, Miss Hannah and Una Kichi in Japanese evolutions, the trained zebra introduced by Wm. Ducrow prominent in the novelties, trained ponies handled by C. White, Lilly Deacon and Nellie Rose in highly finished menage acts, and Martino Lowanda and F. Morgan principal four horse acts. Among the others in their diversified specialties were: Davenport, Rice and Schrode Bros., the Lovellos, Raffin, Runnells and Lascelles, Miss Scott and Adrienne Ancion. The sensational aerialisms of Zazel were prominent for their daring and unique attractiveness. The hippodrome races were highly appreciated. Wm. Ducrow acted as starter and Charles White as judge. The card included: Gentleman's jockey race (Ed Moriarty, J. W. Flynn, Chas. Leaners and Chas. Schletter as riders); Shetland pony race, man against horse; ladies' flat race (Nellie Rose, Jennie Sawyer, Lizzie Sharon and Annie Brauel riding); camel race; Roman double standing race (Frank Merrian, H. Harrison and Frank Morgan contestants); wheelbarrow race, and the four horse chariot race (Mme. Neuman and W. Smith riding). The riders did well and without accident, and the winners were heartily applauded The finale of the bill was the Arabic, Moor and Bedouin contingent in many peculiar acts and evolutions never before seen on this side. The caravan was attractively unique; the dancing girls displayed graceful and novel evolutions; the sword combats excited strong interest; the strange games were attractive; the acrobatic exercises were of high class and uniqueness, and the Arab stallions, camels, brilliant costumes and depiction of true desert life formed truly a grand display. It is needless to add that this troupe is a more extensive one of its kind than has been seen on this side, and it should prove itself one of the strongest parts of the already large show. Jenny O'Brien is still out of the bill on account of her injuries. The management hope she will be able to make her debut here before the closing of their city season. The lady is getting along nicely and is impatient to commence work. Brooklyn will be the first stand of the show after leaving this city.

IN our "Dramatic and Musical Notes" on another page reference is made to the trouble between Pat and Katie Rooney. The girl has since taken refuge at the rooms of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. April 2 Lawyer Ambrose H. Purdy asked Surrogate Ransom to appoint as guardian of her person and estate her aunt, Mrs. Emma Wicker, of 134 East Thirteenth street. The girl says in her affidavit that her father's name was William Van Brandenstein, and her mother's maiden name Johanna M. Grazer. She says that it is not safe for her to live with her stepfather, and that when she got away from him on habeas corpus at Easton, Pa., she was obliged to take refuge with the Children's Society to prevent her stepfather from taking forcible possession of her and carrying her to Rochester, where he is playing.

THE PERFORMERS' PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION, which was organized in this city on Jan. 15, is evidently growing in favor, from the way the list of members is increasing. Joe Allen is president, Frank Davis vice president, W. J. McGrath secretary, J. P. Hogan treasurer, and a board of eighteen as trustees. The society includes all branches of the profession among its members.

LEWIS DOCKSTADER was a CLIPPER caller April 2. He reports business on the road as far in excess of his most sanguine expectations. The rumor that he was to rejoin Carncross' Minstrels, Philadelphia, Pa., next season, is emphatically denied by Mr. Dockstader, who adds that "he will be at his own house on Broadway Sept. 3, with a stronger and better show than ever."

THATCHER, PRIMROSE & WEST'S MINSTRELS will play at the Grand Opera House next week.

THE summons and complaint in M. H. Barrymore's suit against Fanny Davenport and Victorien Sardou to restrain Miss Davenport from continuing Sardou's "La Tosca" at the Broadway Theatre, on the ground that the play is a palpable imitation of Mr. Barrymore's "Nadjezda," were served upon Miss Davenport March 31. There was also served upon Miss Davenport an order granted by Judge O'Brien to show cause why an injunction should not at once issue restraining the production of the play. The order was made returnable at eleven o'clock on April 3. Mr. Barrymore submits affidavits from Leonard Grover, Clay M. Greene, Clinton Stuart, T. W. Robertson and Selina Dolaro, declaring that they believe "La Tosca" to be an adaptation of "Nadjezda." On 3 an adjournment was taken to 25, when a comparison of the plays will be made.

DOCKSTADER'S THEATRE.—A good sized and quite cordial audience at this house Monday night, April 2, saw the first American performance of "Monte Cristo Jr.," a burlesque originally done at the London Gaiety over a year ago, and there notably successful, thanks to the merry work of Fred Leslie, Nellie Farren, Fay Templeton, Billie Barlow, E. J. Lonnen and others then of the Gaiety company. Corinne's version of the travesty retains the original melodies of Meyer Lutz, Tito Mattei and others, but the libretto used by her has been considerably localized. The Dockstader production was generally praiseworthy. Pretty scenery had been painted for it by George Dayton and Rene Gerard. There were plenty of gay costumes, a host of good looking choristers, and a good ballet. A burlesque hit in the dancing was contributed by Charles Fostelle. The incidental marches, etc., were arranged by Augusta Sohlke, and Fred A. Rothstein attended to the musical portion of the entertainment. We append the full cast: Nortier, Harry Brown; De Villefort, James Sturgess; Fernand, Elsie Gerome; Mercedes, Francesca Redding; Mariette, Dorris Studleigh; Carconte, Ethel Stanley; Babette, Annie Osterman; Victorine, Virginia Kimball; Valentine, Mittie Atherton; Albert, Sadie Spencer; Captain of Hussars, Pauline Sanderson; Captain of Guard, Kirk Towns; Boatswain, Louise Tyler; Clarette, Rose Stewart; Danglers, Harry Woodbury; Cardousse, Newton Chisnel; Morel, Frank Hayden; Old Dantes, F. Conway; Barney, James Parker; Danny, Charles Parker; Toby, Dick Callahan; Fagan, James Callahan, and Edmond Dantes, Corinne. Corinne's work was in the main lively and intelligent. She danced with her customary ability, and was properly rollicking and pretty at all moments. Harry Brown, Newton Chisnell and Elsie Gerome worked hard and effectively in the support. The burlesque revealed several songs that should become popular here. It will continue to the close of Corinne's city season, April 21. "Amanuensis" will follow 23, and there will be open time at the theatre after May 21, so Manager William Foore informs us.

BOLOSSY KIRALFY'S "Dolores" Co. opened at Niblo's Garden April 2, to a full house. This week marks the first New York appearance of Francisina Paris, the premiere, and the first city production of "Dolores" in its present form. It is, as we made known long ago, a spectacular rehabilitation of Sardou's "Patrie," which was made known to America in 1869 at the Grand Opera House, then under James Fisk Jr.'s control. Mr. Kiralfy's company were well received at Niblo's, and Mlle. Paris made a distinct hit. She is small, graceful and one of the easiest dancers we have seen in many a day. The scenic accessories are excellent, and the two big ballet movements were clever in conception and effective in details. So many out of our out of town correspondents have reviewed "Dolores" already this season, that only bare mention of its New York success is now called for. Newton Gotthold, Eleanor Carey, J. T. Malone, J. H. Fitzpatrick, Max Figman and Carlotta Dean did good work in the dramatic cast. The ballets were large and well drilled.

MANAGER P. HARRIS of Baltimore was at the Hoffman House April 3. During the coming season his prices will be advanced in Baltimore so as to have them range with those of the high priced theatres. At the advances made Mr. Harris says the Academy of Music will hold nearly $8,000. Only three matinees will be given in Louisville, Cincinnati and Washington, and there will be a slight advance of prices on the entire circuit of Mr. Harris' theatres, while the seating capacities of all will be increased.

STAR THEATRE.—Prof. Herrmann, assisted by Mme. Herrmann and D'Alvini, inaugurated another metropolitan engagement April 2, when the Star was well filled with a thoroughly pleased audience. After his current engagement Prof. Herrmann will continue on the road six weeks. He will then go to Europe for the Summer, returning in August to start on a tour of Mexico (where he scored a hit some years ago), remaining there until after the Fall elections in this country. James Owen O'Connor will occupy the Star next week, and will then make his metropolitan debut.

Davis were the committee of arrangements, and they left nothing undone to contribute to the success of the affair. A. H. Sheldon had charge of the stage and entertainment, and attended to his duties with such care that not a slip was made in the announced programme, all named appearing, which is seldom done in affairs of this kind. The following was the bill: Overture by Prof. Thomas Maguire and orchestra, "Tippitewich's Little Game," with A. H. Sheldon, J. R. Gildersleeve, Dick Morosco, Dave Posner, C. ADDRESSES OR WHEREABOUTS NOT GIVEN. ALL IN QUEST OF SUCH SHOULD WRITE TO THOSE WHOM THEY SEEK IN CARE OF THE CLIPPER POST-OFFICE.

THEATRICAL.

J. M.—Address the Archmere Sisters, care of THE CLIPPER. They are in the city this week, as our news columns mention.

F. E. H., Albany.—We must respectfully decline to answer questions relating to the private life of any professional.

F. F.—A photograph of that actress can probably be obtained of B. J. Falk, Broadway and Twenty-third Street.

F. M., Zanesville.—Cost depends entirely upon the number of performers, their ability, amount and quality of printing, etc. Ans where from $1.200 to $5,000.

H. M. D. P., Somerville.—See head of this column.

CONSTANT READER, Lynchburg.—See answer to "F. E. H., Albany."

W. D.—No American play of that title has been produced, so far as our records show.

NOVICE, Philadelphia.—From $20 to $100 weekly, and no expenses save fares. The average is probably $40.

C. H. P., San Diego.—1. From nine to fifteen or more. 2. The average is probably not over $75 a week. 3. Depends entirely upon the number of people, cost of play, expense of scenery, fares, printing, etc. 4. No. 5. From $10 to $500 a week—according. 6. Generally it is.

J. M.—1. Marie Jansen made what she considers her professional debut Sept. 13, 1880, at the Park Theatre, Boston, Mass., as Cicely Fay, in "Lawn Tennis," with the Comley Barton Co. 2. We published her portrait and a sketch of her stage career in THE CLIPPER dated July 4, 1885. 3. All numbers are not in print, but that is.

W. S., Nyack.—Beware! That is short, but look to it.

L. T.—Edith Kingdon never was a member of that company.

S. S. J., Meshoppen.—Consult our list of routes on an other page. If we have any knowledge of that company's whereabouts it will there be revealed.

F. C., Richfield Springs.—You win. Mr. Harrigan did not appear at that benefit. He did not offer to. Some weeks prior he had volunteered his services, and those of his company, for the benefit that was to have been given at the People's, but was abandoned. His offer for that event was not treated in a kindly spirit, and he therefore took no part in the Academy benefit.

C. R. T., Waco.—She made her debut in England, where she was born; has been before the footlights since infancy, and is a wife. As a star she has been traveling four or five years.

C. C. G., Luzerne.—There are such firms, we believe, and they are enabled to carry out such schemes through the advertising their wares receive. We cannot recommend any particular concern, however.

D. N. D., Cleveland.—Consult our list of routes ("On the Road") on another page.

L. L., Manistee.—T. H. French & Son, the play publishers, West Twenty-third Street, this city, will tell you all about it.

M. E. M., Wilmington.—She is Mrs. Edwin H. Price, the wife of her manager. You have confounded him with Lawyer Edmund E. Price. As Cadeaux says: "Not the same."

F. R., Knoxville.—We have received no route from them in some weeks. Probably they have closed their tour. Why not advertise for them?

J. A. M., Jersey City.—Your case comes within a lawyer's scope. We cannot aid you, though we sympathize with you.

J. C. F., Buffalo.—He is alive, and can be addressed care of THE CLIPPER.

W. D., North Stratford.—They do not make known to us their routes ahead for a period long enough to an swer your purpose. You had better insert an advertisement.

C. W. H., Louisville.—Possessing no experience and no special qualifications, so far as your letter makes known, you seem to have a slight chance of attaining your object. We do not exert "influence" to procure lyros openings. Try your luck with such managers as visit your city. You may convince one of them that you have "the sacred fire" within you. But, on general principles, take our old advice, and don't.

R. F. G. JR., Williamsport.—We know of only one—in Chicago; and that is not of good repute. 2. See Miscellaneous answers.

KNIGHT 129.—No member of our staff belongs to that order, and we are thus unable to enlighten you. Probably F. B. Warde, whom you can address care of THE CLIPPER, will give you valuable information.

MARCO.—There is such an actor, and you can ascertain all about him by writing to him. See head of this column.

C. H., Indianapolis.—See head of this column. Address either or both of them care of THE CLIPPER.

M. P., Fillmore.—That show disbanded and was sold at auction in St. Louis several weeks ago. Write to your son, care of THE CLIPPER.

AMATEUR.—1. Ask your druggist for a glycerine preparation of some sort. 2. It does, generally. Watch our route list.

W. C., Topeka.—See the cards of Dazian & Co. and Shannon, Miller & Crane, in this paper.

W. E. W., Grand Rapids.—He will arrive in town shortly from England. Write to him care of THE CLIPPER.

A CORNCRACKER.—He will play in French.

J. F.—F. A. Robbins' Circus will open at Frenchtown, N. J., in a fortnight. Watch THE CLIPPER'S circus news.

R. C. H., Philadelphia.—Answer next week.

LEXICO.—Answer next week.

BENSON.—"The Fast Family," as adapted by Benj. Webster Jr. from "La Famille Benoiton," was originally acted at Wallack's (Star) Theatre, this city, Sept. 18, 1867. Is that the production you refer to?

R. C. L.—First in this city, Sept. 12, 1887, at the Madison Square Theatre. The book had been extant in England at least a year previously.

PERU, Ind.—We cannot be the arbiter of purely personal disputes, and therefore do not regard this as other than a mere expression of individual opinion, viz.: That the orchestra were at fault, according to the statement as made by you.

A. S. M., Decatur.—1. See answers above. We recommend no "professors." 3. About $2,000. 4. That will be made known soon in our report of the legal proceedings between them. 5. She did not study there at all.

J. L. R.—Cerito was born in England. During one of Col. T. Allston Brown's trips to Europe he saw this lady, at a theatre in Manchester, do a transformation dance, and at once secured her for America. This was in October, 1871. She came to this country under the management of John Stetson during the season of 1871-2, accompanied by her husband and child, now known as Patti Rosa. She has for a long time been residing at Newark, N. J.

BASEBALL, CRICKET, ETC.

H. J. F., Philadelphia.—1. The Baltimore Club was not organized until 1872, when its players were: Craver, Higham and Hastings, catchers; Mathews and Fisher, pitchers; Mills, Carey and Force on the bases; Radcliff, short stop, and York, Hall and Pike in the outfield. In 1873, the team remained unchanged, with the exception of the substitution of McVey, Cummings and Brainard for Higham, Mathews and Fisher. 2. The Chicago Club was organized during the Winter of 1869-70. Its team in 1870, included Pinkham and Burns, pitchers; Hodes and King, catchers; McAtee, Wood and Meyerle on the bases; Duffy, short stop, and Treacy, Cuthbert and Flynn in the outfield. Zettlein, Foley and Simmons were the new men in 1871. Burns, Meyerle, Cuthbert and Flynn retiring. The Chicago Club had no team in 1872 and '73. 3. See Card Answers.

H. J. R., Galt.—Address John B. Sage, Buffalo, N. Y.

H. K., Lynn.—It is a matter of opinion merely, and cannot be decided from a "percentage point of view."

D. F. H., Philadelphia.—The rules of cricket provide that a one day match, unless played out, shall be decided by the totals of the first inning.

ATHLETIC.

B. S. L., Jersey City.—J. S. Herriman was never champion walker of America at any distance. You are thinking of Charles A. Harriman, who has been in Australia for some time.

W. L. O.—You will find all the information we can give you in the report of the race, published in THE CLIPPER of Feb. 18 last.

W. H. B., Milwaukee.—The party you mention is not the original J. W. Raby, whose records as published in THE CLIPPER ANNUAL for 1888 are correct.

E. E. R., St. Louis.—The best records at all distances, as made, appear in THE CLIPPER ANNUAL year after year. The book was first published in 1874.

J. W., Reading.—The entrance fee for the coming six days' race at Madison Square Garden, this city, is fifty dollars, and only those who travel 525 miles in the 142 hours will be entitled to share in the gate money.

E. J. H., New Haven.—"Practical Training" is probably what you want. You can obtain it from Ed. James, whose address is in advertisement.

J. H. R., Flint.—According to the rules for side hold wrestling, each contestant must take hold of his opponent's hip or waistband with one hand, and with the other his antagonist's hand. The party letting go his hold first, before one or the other is thrown, shall be considered to have lost.

W. F., Danbury.—William Flitcroft won a forty-eight hours go as you please race at the Rink in Newark, N. J., Dec. 26 to 28, 1878. The distance traveled by him was stated to be 180 miles.

H. & C., Kalamazoo.—See THE CLIPPER ANNUAL for 1888 for records in all branches of sport.

A. C., Philadelphia.—William Muldoon was born at Belfast, N. Y., May 25, 1854, stands 5ft. 9¾in. in height, and in condition weighs close upon 196lb.

G. C. S., Worcester.—We already have a sporting correspondent there.

BILLIARDS, POOL, ETC.

A. L. M.—The two styles of game, especially since the American four ball game, almost became extinct through the adoption of the carom game with no pockets, would render it impossible for our players to enter into any matches with English champions at their style of game, unless inducement enough was offered them to compensate for the practice required to get into proper condition. Opinions differ as to whether an American player did his best to wrest the supremacy from an English champion many years ago, at a time when the styles of games between the two countries were nearly or quite similar. It is conceded, we believe, by all nations that our championship contests of recent years require more skill and technique than was ever known in the history of billiards, up to the contests of restricted and cushion carom billiards. Regarding your query as to why the challenges of the English billiard champion are not extended to this country, and vice versa, it is safe to say that all Englishmen are invited to enter against us, reasonably certain of a return engagement, were the stake made large enough.

C. M. A., Jersey City.—Please state under what rules you wish a decision—pyramid or fifteen ball pool?

C. M. C., Haverhill.—As we understand it, you have three prizes, for which are tied A, B and C. They must, according to all precedent, either divide the whole stake or play it off.

CARDS.

G., Suffield.—B won the game, high giving his hand the precedence. You have the right idea, subject to exceptions, one of which is the case under dispute. If B has three to go and C one, and the former makes high, jack, game and the latter makes low, then, as in your case, B wins the game.

P. M. S., Dickinson.—The game only, unless the end is so near as to carry the stakes with it.

C. P., Plymouth.—Yes, but the dealer has the right to another shuffle.

M. D. C.—He could not.

A. M., St. Louis.—Which Hoyle? There are a dozen or more, some of which publish rules on the game you mention, while others do not. THE CLIPPER is its own authority.

C. B. S. A., Baltimore.—B is entitled of course to two sequences of three and four points and to one point for the go, making in all eight points pegged. No answers by mail.

T. J. B., Du Bois.—1. The non-dealer. 2. According to your statement, it was not a misdeal, unless the surplus card was raised from the table, or its face seen by either player.

KEN, Buffalo.—No. That privilege is granted to the ante-man only. Straddling not being compulsory, the person indulging has no other alternative but to pay for his boldness.

ROCHESTER, Rochester.—A wins the game. His high determined the superiority of his hand.

J. W. Q., Chicago.—1. The knave, unless otherwise agreed. 2. No. Two only. Are you aware, however, that D, at regular euchre, could not legally go alone. 3. A straight flush, if previously it is mutually recognized as legal.

M. L., Washington.—They go out in the order you named. We cannot decide anything, because you failed to state the most important factor in the case—the bet. If there is a dispute, state the particulars of both sides as they actually occurred, and the decision will be gladly rendered.

H. T., Willmille.—Yes, provided always you hold the necessary cards to take them.

H. J., Foster.—You were wrong. For obvious good reasons it could not count, one of the best being that it is bound to count in the course of play.

D. L., Flint, and E. W. H., Grand Rapids.—Agree among yourselves. That game is a purely local innovation. Let custom govern. We would suggest, however, that the spade be made low when clubs are trumps, and vice versa.

L. C. H., Broadway Centre.—The high card determines the winner always. This rule is infallible. See reply to "D. L., Flint," etc.

P. D., Fort Yates.—Four fours and a three count twenty in cribbage.

CAVENDISH.—Answer next week.

DICE, DOMINOS, ETC.

B. E. C., Butte.—The two who threw 44 throw off for first and second prizes, the one who threw 16 takes third prize, and the thrower of 17 is entitled to fourth prize. Had two men threw 16, they would have had to throw off for the two lowest prizes, under the conditions of the raffle. Ordinarily, those who threw 43 would have thrown off for third and fourth.

C. H. H., Suspension Bridge.—The two 45 men receive both prizes.

CONSTANT READER.—C wins.

T. E. G., Waterford.—Your opponent's claim was right. Both sets must be played. Upon previous mutual agreement, however, another throw may be legally permitted.

TURF.

B. M.—The Suburban Handicap was run on the first day of the Spring meeting of the Coney Island Jockey Club, Saturday, Sept. 18, 1887.

J. F.—When Maud S. made her fastest time, 2.08¾, she was owned by Robert Bonner.

TWO DONKEYS.—Each horse is entitled to a record of 2.20.

RING.

P. H. M., Rothbury.—1. According to the report in The London Referee, it was Jack Baldock, one of Mitchell's seconds, who first suggested that the fight between the latter and Sullivan be declared a draw. The Sporting Life states that Jack Ashton, one of Sullivan's seconds, first suggested it, and that Mitchell responded that he would draw or fight on, as John L. desired, adding: "What say you, John; shall it be a draw?" and that Sullivan replied: "I don't mind." Thereupon Baldock joined their hands together, saying: "Then shake hands; it's a draw." You can take your choice. 2. Judging from the different reports we have read, Mitchell was the most punished. 3. That it was perfectly fair and square, and that the result was a virtual victory for Mitchell. There is, however, reason to suppose that if the injury to Sullivan's right arm that occurred in the fifth round had not happened, the fight would not have lasted nearly so long as it did, and that the result would probably have been different.

J. C., Paterson.—James Carney defeated James Highland near Tamworth, Eng., Oct. 7, 1881. They fought 43 rounds in 1h. 45m., when the police interfered and the stakes were drawn. Highland was so badly punished, especially about the body, that he died eight days afterward. Carney was tried, convicted of manslaughter, and sentenced to a term in prison.

B. H. M., Stampede.—Dominick McCaffrey did not knock Charles Mitchell out at the time they fought with gloves in Madison Square Garden. In fact, the general opinion of the spectators was that the Englishman had the best of the encounter, although the referee gave the victory to Mac.

CANADIAN, Hemphill.—1. As their weight was incorrectly stated at the time, we cannot give it. 2. There is no champion of the world, the fight for that honor between Kilrain and Smith having resulted in a draw, thus leaving the title in abeyance. 3. Judging from the record, John L. Sullivan is.

J. H., Baltimore.—John Morrissey was born in Templemore, County Tipperary, Ireland, Feb. 5, 1831, and died at Saratoga, N. Y., May 1, 1878.

J. H. C., Philadelphia.—As we did not witness the performance, we cannot state positively. He appeared in conjunction with William Muldoon.

FERGUS FALLS.—Tom Sayers arm was never broken. His right forearm was badly contused in his fight with J. C. Heenan, chiefly through stopping the American's blows. It was well enough to spar with a few weeks afterwards.

F. S., Philadelphia.—1. At the time of their glove contest at the Pavonia Rink, Jersey City, Dec. 31 last, Jack Dempsey's stated weight was 152lb., and that of Dominick McCaffrey 175lb. 2. According to most rules, in pigeon shooting all contingencies from miss fire, non explosion of cap, gun not cocked, etc., are at the risk of the party shooting, and the bird is to be scored as a missed bird.

T. Y. C., Taunton.—We saw it so stated in one account of the fight, but in no other that we have seen, so that we cannot undertake to decide a bet on that point.

J. T. C., Buffalo.—His weight was variously stated, and was probably not known to anyone, he having no occasion to go to scale.

MISCELLANEOUS.

JAEGER.—The tie does not make the wager a draw. The party betting on the greater weight loses.

J. A. W., Newark.—1. That puzzle, we believe, was patented. 2. We don't know.

W. S. S., Worcester.—It has been solved. We can't recall the inventor's name.

PADUCAH, Ky.—Your card would cost $3 for one insertion.

G. A. B., Troy.—One month, $5.60, for one half inch card.

H. E., Lincoln.—A card such as you name would cost $1.40 for one week.

QUERY, Ottawa.—The decision referred to in a contemporary is erroneous. A was required to eat one dozen hen's eggs, being the kind ordinarily used as food.

S. & Co., Birmingham.—Maxim Gas Works, 208 Centre Street, or Denny Brothers, 34 Park Place, City.

A. S., Decatur.—We do not know the address. Advertise for it in our business columns.

H. W. W., Brooklyn.—The terms are box frame and skeleton frame. The box frame takes its name from the box at the side for the weights. The skeleton frame has no weights.

B. C. W., Three Rivers.—Answer next week. Our expert is at work on it.

W. P. D., Baker City.—It can be solved, and has been.

POSTAL CARD (no signature).—We are unable to make head or tail of your conundrums. Try again.

W. M. G., Albany.—The Palace Hotel, San Francisco, Cal. It contains over 1,000 rooms. Others of its rank with only a fewer number of apartments are the Grand Central, in this city, and the Ryan, in Chicago.

The principal business transacted was the reinstatement as an amateur of Malcomb W. Ford, the all around champion, who was present and applied for rehabilitation. It will be remembered that he was disqualified by the association a year or so ago for alleged violation of amateur law by competing at professional games at Springfield, Mass., and, although the belief of the committee in the ju-tice of that decision was still strong, the fact that he had never since his disqualification competed in games of any kind, and stated that he never intended doing so in future, satisfied them that he had been sufficiently punished, and that he was a fit candidate for reinstatement, for which the vote was unanimous.

HANDBALL.—There has been considerable talk indulged in between the Irish champion Lawlor and Will Courtney this past week in their efforts to come to an understanding in regard to the details of the proposed match between them, but nothing definite has been arrived at as yet. Courtney wants the games to be played in the Brooklyn Handball Court, where there is ample accommodation for spectators, while Lawlor wants half of the games to be played in the Murray Hill Court in this city, which may not have the required seating capacity for the crowd that will want to see the match. On this dispute the event hangs fire..... Ex-Congressman Riley has introduced a new game at Casey's Court, Brooklyn, a kind of cross between handball and lawn tennis; that is, a smaller ball is used than in handball, and lawn tennis racquets are used in serving the ball, instead of the hands. It is more like racquets than handball.

BASEBALL.

NOTABLE BATTING FEATS IN 1887.

Club and Individual Achievements in Hard and Successive Safe Hitting.

Big batting marked many games in 1887, especially the championship contest between the Lincoln and Wichita Clubs of the Western League Aug. 8, when the record for the season was broken. The Lincolns pounded their opponents' pitchers unmercifully, making no fewer than forty-five actual safe hits with a total of sixty seven bases, incuding three home runs and six triples. The spectators at the Reading-Williamsport game, June 30, were treated to an old time slugging contest, two pitchers being knocked out of the box by Williamsport, who made twenty-three safe hits, and three pitchers by Reading, who made twenty-nine hits. The greatest batting game of the International League season was between Toronto and Buffalo Aug. 27, when a total of forty-three hits was recorded, including five home runs and three triples. Hard hitting marked the game between the St. Louis and Cleveland Clubs April 30, in St. Louis, Mo., the home team then pounding Morrison safely twenty-six times, embracing three hits for home runs and four for triples. The Eau Claire team made twenty-safe hits off Bruster the Duluth pitcher, July 5. The New York team terribly pounded Shaw of Washington, June 11, on the Polo Grounds, thirty-one safe hits being then scored off him. In the Lowell-Haverhill game June 15 in Lowell, Mass., the home team batted Jerald for one home run, three triples, nine doubles and a like number of singles in seven innings. The Bostons batted Galvin, the Pittsburg pitcher, seventeen times safely in four innings Aug. 27. The Detroits batted Baldwin, of Chicago, all over the field June 17, their sixteen safe hits embracing five home runs, one three baser and three two baggers.

In the above mentioned Lincoln-Wichita game Aug. 8 in Lincoln, Neb., the home team also broke the record for the season's run-getting in one inning by scoring twenty runs in the sixth. The batting then was simply a repetition of the sixth inning in the game with the Denver Club May 11, when the Lincolns made nineteen runs. The Young Americas of Philadelphia also made nineteen runs in one inning in a game with the Doylestown team Sept. 3. The Lowells scored fourteen runs in one inning and thirteen in another against the Haverhill Club June 15. In the game between the St. Joseph and Kansas City Clubs May 7, the former led by two runs up to the last half of the seventh inning. After two men were then out the Kansas City team scored fourteen runs and secured an unexpected victory. The Amherst College team last May visited Waterbury, Ct., and the score stood 15 to 4 in their favor up to the ninth inning, when the home team made twelve runs and won the game. The St. Louis Browns saved themselves from being defeated by the Syracuse Stars April 3, by scoring twelve runs in the ninth inning. The Browns also batted out twelve runs in one inning against Baltimore 12, and eleven runs in an inning against Indianapolis, April 5. The New York, Athletic and Jersey City Clubs each once made eleven runs in an inning last season. The Bostons bunched nine safe hits and scored ten runs in the tenth inning of the morning game with New York June 17. The Torontos defeated the Buffalos Aug. 27 by making ten runs in the ninth inning. In Bridgeport, Ct., April 25, the home team scored ten runs in the eighth inning and thus defeated the Syracuse Stars by 12 to 4. The rule in vogue last season crediting the batsman with a hit when given a base on called balls, was absurd and individual averages are consequently worthless so far as showing the actual batting strength. O'Neil of the St. Louis Browns led all professionals in hard hitting, having thirteen home runs, twenty-four triples and forty-six doubles in championship games alone last season. Brouthers of Detroit led the National League and Grant of Buffalo, the International League, in this respect. Halliday of the Topeka team made the most home runs last season, having seventeen in championship games of the Western League. Hugh Duffy of the Lowell Club was the star of the New England League.

The Lawrence-Lowell game, June 11, was remarkable for the reason that nine home runs were made in it. Eight home runs were made in the Washington-Boston game Oct. 5, three being scored in one inning. A feature of the Philadelphia-Boston game June 4, was the fact that three of the four runs scored were home run hits. Moolic of the Boston Blues, on May 4, Reardon of Manchester pitching, performed the feat of making three home runs in three successive innings, putting the ball over the left field fence each time. Wood of the Philadelphias, performed the same feat at Los Angeles, Cal., last December. Halliday of the Topeka team, made two home runs in one inning of a game with St. Joe June 25. Anson of the Chicagos and Richardson of the Detroits were each once credited with three home runs in an exhibition game. In the St. Louis-Cleveland game April 30, O'Neil distinguished himself by making two home runs and a triple—a total of eleven bases—in the fifth and sixth innings. Duffy of Lowell broke the New England League record of batting Sept. 1, when he pounded McDermott of Manchester, for three home runs and a triple, a total of fifteen bases for four hits. In the game between the Louisvilles and Mets Aug. 31, Kerins of the former team hit safely five times with a total of fifteen bases—two home runs, two three baggers and a single. Thompson of the Detroits, and Andrus of the Portlands, each once made three triples and a home run in successive hits. Andrews of the Memphis team is said to have made seven safe hits in one game, including three home runs and a triple. The feat of making six successive safe hits in a game was performed once each by Lyons of the Athletics, Quinn of Duluth, Beckley of Denver, and Trask of Manchester, while safe hits in five successive times at the bat were scored once each by O'Neil of the St. Louis Browns, Burns and Purcell of the Baltimores, Bauer of the Athletics, Clark of Brooklyn, Cross of Louisville, Thompson of Detroit, Hines of Washington, Denny of Indianapolis, Duffy of Lowells and Wilmot of St. Pauls. Carroll of the Pittsburgs made, May 2, the curious sequence of a single, double, triple and home run in four times at the bat. Dave Orr of the Mets performed the same feat Aug. 10 in Baltimore. With three men on the bases home runs were made by several batsmen, including Connor, Morrill, Welch, Mann, Earle and Quinn, the two last named doing it in the Eau Claire-Duluth game July 12. Thompson made three baggers in the seventh and ninth innings of the Detroit-Indianapolis game May 7, when each time the bases were full and two men out. Ward made seven of the fifteen hits credited to the New Yorks in their two games on July 4 in Chicago. O'Neil of the St. Louis Browns batted safely nine times in succession in two games, twice for home runs. In the three games between the Detroits and Washingtons last August, Brouthers made eleven safe hits, seven being doubles. The longest hit of the season at the Polo Grounds was made Aug. 31 by Connor of the New York team, he batting the ball over the right field fence and duplicating his feat of the preceding season. Connor also made the longest hit ever seen in San Francisco, Cal., it being a drive over the right field fence made Dec. 3. Williamson of the Chicagos was the second one to bat a ball over the centre field fence on the Boston grounds, which he did Aug. 22, off Radbourn's pitching. Cartwright of the New Orleans team, was reported to have batted a ball the distance of 588 feet from the home plate. Duffy of the Lowells, hit a ball Aug. 31, at Manchester, N. H., that went on the fly over the centrefield fence, which was a distance of 450 feet from the home plate. Very long hits were also made by Caruthers, Burns and Seward, in Philadelphia, O'Neil and Foutz in St. Louis, Werrick and Geo. Smith in Louisville, Orr at Staten Island, Brouthers in Detroit, Morrill in Pittsburg, Lewis in Rochester, Crane in Toronto, Simon in Syracuse, and Veach in Des Moines. Home run hits winning games were made by Sullivan and Pfeffer of the Chicagos, July 20 and Aug. 8, respectively, O'Brien of the Washingtons Aug. 20, and Carroll of the Pittsburgs Sept. 12. Sowders' two home runs enabled Jersey City to beat Wilkesbarre July 26, by a score of 4 to 3. Connor won a game for the New Yorks Aug. 19 in Philadelphia, twice in succession placing the ball over the right field fence, and bringing in six runs. A home run by Dalrymple in the ninth inning enabled Pittsburg to tie Chicago Sept. 28, and another one by the same player in the tenth inning won the game. The only and winning run in the Des Moines-La Crosse game Sept. 5, was a home run by Whitely. Richardson and Conway of Detroit, Hines of Washington, Reilly and Fennelly of Cincinnati, and Hecker of Louisville each once made a home run that saved their respective clubs from being blanked.

EXHIBITION GAMES IN THE SOUTH.

New York, Washington, Chicago and Cincinnati Against Local Teams.

In the game played by the New Yorks March 19 at Fernandina, Fla., Murphy was struck in the arm by a pitched ball and hurt. Manager Mutrie's men won easily, the totals being 25 to 6. The Washingtons, after beating the Birminghan Club, 16 to 8, in Birmingham, Ala., and 17 to 3 (six innings) in Atlanta, Ga., visited Jacksonville, Fla., where arrangements had been made for two games with the New Yorks. A tardy arrival was made, the train being detained six hours by a cyclone. The first game was played March 21 and inaugurated the new grounds and professional baseball in Jacksonville. Over one thousand people were in attendance, the majority being tourists. The contest was close and exciting, Washington winning by a score of 6 to 5. Crane held the winners down to six safe hits, but gave seven men bases on balls, three of whom scored runs. The tables were turned March 22, when the New Yorks won by 10 to 2. Crane on this occasion was too much for the Washingtons, who made only four scattering hits. Murphy again caught splendidly for New York. Gilmore, who was substituted for O'Day in the box, complained of a lame arm. Foster fielded finely at centre, where he made seven catches. The Washingtons easily defeated the Jacksonville team, 18 to 2, March 23, and then left for Savannah, Ga., where they played the third game with the New Yorks on the following afternoon. The contest took place under adverse conditions, a high wind prevailing and the grounds being so rough that good fielding was almost impossible. The Washingtons won by 5 to 4, Crane and Gilmore both pitching very effectively. Games were played March 28 by the New Yorks and Washingtons in Savannah and Charleston, the visitors defeating the local teams by the respective scores of 13 to 8 and 7 to 2.

The Cincinnatis continued last week their tour through Texas, playing March 17 and 18 in Dallas, where they defeated the local professionals by the respective scores of 21 to 3 and 8 to 0, the latter contest being limited by rain to five innings, in which the losers failed to make a solitary safe hit off Hart. The Cincinnatis played March 19 in Fort Worth. Bad errors in the first inning gave the home team three runs and the lead. The visitors managed to tie the score in the eighth inning and made the winning run in the ninth, the totals being 5 to 4. Returning to Austin, the Cincinnatis received a bad defeat, being able to make only three scattering safe hits off Ehret. The home team won by 3 to 0, pounding Serad for ten hits, including three doubles and a triple. It has been Serad's fate to pitch in the three games Cincinnati has lost in the South. The Cincinnatis played again in New Orleans March 25, when they defeated the home team, 3 to 1. The succeeding two days found the Cincinnatis in Birmingham, Ala., where each team scored a victory, the visitors winning the first game by 7 to 2 and the home club the other, 8 to 3. After cancelling the Memphis dates on account of wet weather, the Cincinnatis arrived home March 29. Their record on the Southern trip was twenty-two victories and four defeats.

At the Hot Springs, Ark., the Chicagos played March 17 their second game with a picked nine of professionals and again won, the score being 5 to 4. Conway of the Detroits was batted out of the box in the fourth inning, and Healy of Indianapolis took his place, keeping the Chicagos down to one safe hit in the last five innings. The Chicago team, with the exception of Daly, who will remain at the Hot Springs, next visited New Orleans, La., where they met with a defeat March 21 in their opening contest with the local professionals. Baldwin was batted freely by New Orleans, while Webber was too much for Chicago, the score at the finish being 6 to 2. This result was reversed March 23, when the Chicagos won, 7 to 3. Clark, formerly of the Des Moines Club, pitched effectively for Manager Anson's nine.

A SERIES of eight games will be played by the Athletic and Philadelphia Clubs between April 9 and 17 for the local championship. Each club will play, weather permitting, four games on its own grounds.

ANDREWS and Ferguson signed with Philadelphia last week. Reach and Andrews settled all their differences amicably and everything is now lovely, except in regard to Boston's view of the Andrews affair.

PRESIDENT VON DER AHE having canceled his dates with the Des Moines Club, that team will take a trip, playing in Davenport April 14, 15, Peoria 16, 17, 18, Bloomington 19, 20, 21, and Dubuque 23.

THE Athletics of Philadelphia will admit members of the press to their grounds through a special entrance, and not pass them at the turnstile gate. The Cincinnati Club will do likewise.

THE YALE nine, in their game with the Athletics, March 31, in Philadelphia, gave Pitcher Stagg wretched support in the field. The Athletics fielded finely, and won by 25 to 4.

THE friends of Patsey Donovan assembled at his home in Lawrence, Mass., March 29, and presented him with an elegant gold watch, chain and charm, previous to his departure for Toronto.

PITCHERS King and Murphy have signed with St Louis. The latter is not to be reserved.

THE BALTIMORE CLUB has released Davis and Daniels to the Kansas City Club.

MANAGER SELEE of the Omaha Club has ordered his players to report by April 1.

WE acknowledge the receipt of an advance copy of Reach's American Association Guide, which this year appears in a new garb, and is replete with interesting details and data of the doings of professionals and amateurs in 1887. Among the many new attractive features are the details of the contests between the clubs of the American Association and National League for the World's Championship from the first game played down to the present time. The work is illustrated by many portraits, those of James O'Neil, Harry Stovey and Al. Reach being especially lifelike. George Munson, the secretary of the St. Louis Browns, is the editor of this invaluable hand book.

THE REPORT of the treasurer of the Detroit Club, made at the annual meeting March 30, showed that but little money was made from the World's championship games of October last. "One reason for this," Mr. Edson explained, "is that we had to pay $6,200 extra in salaries to cover those games. This year we will have no difficulty on that point, as the players are all signed to serve until Nov. 1."

THE VETERAN Lynch has been released from the reserve list of the Brooklyn Club, and he is now open for an engagement. He is in splendid pitching form, and he is doing fine work in training the St. John's College Rose Hill team at Fordham.

SWARTWOOD, another Brooklyn player, has also been released from reserve and will probably play with a Western club.

FROM THE HUB.

Interesting Gossip Gleaned by the Clipper's Boston Baseball Reporter.

BOSTON, Mass., April 1.—Manager Morrill has at last solved the question of the placing of the men, and in a manner that has surprised all who have heard of it. Sutton will be again seen in his old place at third base, and Nash will be placed on second. Burdock will not play in the team, and what will be done with him remains to be seen. This will undoubtedly strengthen the club in batting, and it is not thought that the fielding will be materially affected.

Manager Morrill has determined to keep the men in their positions throughout the season, and to make no changes whatever. Nash has never had much experience in the position, and the information that he was to occupy it was indeed a piece of news to him. He is young and quick, and there is no reason why he should not prove a success in the position. The Bostons will have four powerful hitters by this change, in Kelly, Wise, Nash and Sutton. Naturally, Sutton feels elated over the idea. The veteran has been chafing continually about the idea of watching games from the bench. Morrill has shown great independence in judgment in making the change. Every one expected that Wise would cover first, and Morrill second, with Sutton at short, and Nash on third, but Morrill did not care to relieve Wise, who is much livelier in his position than Sutton, and furthermore did not care to change the positions of three men, as would be necessary under such conditions. But little doubt is expressed here about the signing of Clarkson in a short time, and it is thought that the Boston nine of '88 will have in its ranks, Kelly, Tate, O'Rourke, catchers; Clarkson, Madden, Sowders, Conway, pitchers; Morrill, Nash, Sutton, basemen; Wise, short stop; Hornung, Johnston and Brown, outfielders. The season on Fast Day will find Madden and Kelly the "battery" at one of the six inning games, and Sowders and O'Rourke in the other. The remaining positions will be made up as above. Brown plays right-field for the regulars in the first game, and with the picked nine in the second. On the picked nine, Conway of Boston and Mitchell of Worcester will pitch, Tate and a new man named Wise will catch, Lloyd will play first, Burdock second, O'Rourke third, Wheelock short stop, with the spare battery men, Brown, O'Rourke, Sowders and Madden, in the field. Clarkson may pitch in one of the games for the picked nine.

O'Rourke and Conway have fallen into line and have signed contracts to play in Boston next season, so that Radbourn is the only salaried man unsigned to date, and he has not yet been heard from.

Con Daly was in the city last week looking finely, and he visited his old associates.

The Bostons have been as yet unable to get out into the open air, but they hope to do so tomorrow. The club will divide into two nines and play practice games mornings and afternoons until Fast Day.

Sowders weighs but one hundred and thirty pounds and Madden one hundred and thirty-eight. They do not compare very much in weight with Sanders, Harry Wright's phenomenon, but they are a fine pair to draw to.

The Boston management state that no effort has been made by them to secure Richardson of the New Yorks, and if President Day would not swap him for three Wises or twenty Burdocks, why they would not let Wise go for Richardson and be left without a short stop.

The Harvard boys expect to have an answer on Sunday to the alumni petition requesting that the nine be allowed to play professional clubs. The players took out of door practice on Friday and Saturday.

"Gen." Dixwell, a baseball admirer, who presented all of the Boston players with fine new bat bags last season, has not forgotten Sowders and Brown, the newcomers, this season.

Some of the players have been thoroughly examined by a physician at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

There will not be a chance to see the Bostons play between April 9 and May 25, and there will be little baseball hereabouts unless some one goes to Cambridge to see the Harvards play or we have games on the League or Union grounds played by amateurs, and there were never more nor stronger clubs organized than has been the case thus early this season.

Eugene Foster of the Boston Theatre will be the chief usher on the new grand stand, and his assistants will be F. N. McLean and N. J. Gutman of the same theatre. All three are efficient officials and are great favorites.

Well it was great sport to go and see Mike Kelly as Dusty Bob in the "Rag Baby" at the Park last week, and he did himself proud. A host of friends, as well as of the curious, gathered to see him during the week, and especially on the opening night. Kelly is undoubtedly very versatile.

Charles A. Marston of Brockton has been selected as a New England League umpire, vice Leonard resigned, he receiving a unanimous vote.

The Manchester people are in high glee on account of the accession to their ranks of Third Base Campana, whose release they purchased from Omaha. He was reserved by Salem, and exemption from reserve was granted by this club.

Another change in baseball journalism is announced. W. D. Sullivan of The Globe is to retire from the position of sporting editor and assume that of day city editor of Globe. Mr. Sullivan is a general favorite, and his presence will be greatly missed.

A Newspaper League has been organized, with the Herald, Globe, Post, Advertiser, Traveller and Transcript as members. B. L. Beal of The Journal is the president, secretary and treasurer. Great sport is expected.

The Lowell Club will play the Dartmouths at Lowell, April 5; Matthew Temperance nine, April 6; 10, at Trenton; 11, at Newark; 13, at Brooklyn; 14, at Jersey City; 17, Brown University, at Lowell; 19, 20, Troy at Lowell; June 7, Pittsburg at Lowell; June 22, Washington at Lowell.

Whitehead of the Lynns, now of Stockton, Cal., has written a letter to Secretary Stevens of the New England League in which he claims that the Lynn Club did not live up to its agreement with him and Ebright, and that when he makes his defense to President Rogers of the Board of Arbitration, which he intends to do, he will not be blacklisted. He intimates that if, after hearing his defense, the Board of Arbitration should decide against him, he will have time enough to report before the season opens. He claims that he did not receive advance money as promised.

It has come to light that Boston made a liberal cash offer for the release of Andrews, which was accepted by John I. Rogers. In the letter accepting the terms, permission was given to negotiate with Andrews. Correspondence was at once opened with Andrews, and a letter was written to him at Detroit. He had left that city for Philadelphia, and in answer to a telegram from the latter place, Boston Club wired for his terms. He asked for $3,200, and said he could not get away. Director Billings then started for Philadelphia, and when he arrived there he was astonished to find that Andrews had signed with Philadelphia. Director Billings then tried, but unsuccessfully, to get Myers of the Washingtons.

ONE of the opening games of the California League took place March 16 at Stockton, between the G. and M's of Oakland and the Stocktons. The visitors won by a score of 3 to 2. Knell and McDonald were the "battery" for the visitors and Lorrigan and Stockwell for the home team. It was a very exciting game throughout, the clubs being very evenly matched. The attendance was about 4,000.

MANAGER W. C. SMITH has signed the following players to represent Elmira (N. Y.) in the Central League this season: Allison and Meyer, catchers; Clayton, Reilly, Punch and Lohr, pitchers; Beadle, Kemble and Van Alstyne, on the bases; Shugarts, short stop, and Dougherty, Borden and Kinney in the outfield. On April 14 the team will meet the Rochesters.

MANAGER MCGUNNIGLE of the Brooklyns will place the following team in the field: Caruthers, Foutz, Terry, Mays and Hughes, pitchers; Bushong, Holbert, Peoples and Clark, catchers; Orr, McClellan and Pinkney on the bases; Smith, short stop, and O'Brien, Radford and Stich in the outfield. McGunnigle will act as substitute pitcher or outfielder.

Instructions to Umpires.

The American Association umpires—Ferguson, Doescher, McQuade and Gaffney—have been instructed by President Wikoff to strictly observe this season the appended interpretation of the playing rules:

The Pitcher's Position.—"The pitcher must take his position in the box with his near foot on the near line of the box, and with his other foot to the left of the centre line of his position. He must stand erect with his face to the batter, and with the ball held in front of his body."

Putting in a New Ball.—"When a ball becomes lost to the sight of the umpire—and one hit into the stands is regarded as out of sight—a new ball must be put in play at once."

The Official Score.—"The score card agreed upon by the two captains, and handed to the umpire before the games begins, is to be regarded as the 'score' referred to in the rule giving the order of batting, and this cannot be changed except a player becomes disabled by illness or injury, so as to cause him to retire from the contest."

Defining a Balk.—"Any motion to deliver the ball to the bat must be promptly followed by delivery or a balk must be declared. The pitcher, after making a feint to throw to a base, must pause and take his position to deliver to the bat before he can legally pitch to the batsman. He can only make one step in delivery."

Batted Balls.—"All balls batted to foul ground are to be called strikes."

Substitutes in Uniform.—"All substitute players must be on the field in uniform ready to take the place of injured players. None others are eligible."

Batting Out of Order.—"If a player should fail to take his turn at the bat at the proper time, and the man at the bat makes a fair hit before the error is discovered, all the men who should have gone to the bat before him shall be declared out."

Out on Third Strike.—"If there is a base runner on first base with but one man out, the batsman is out on the third called strike, whether the catcher catches the ball from the third called strike or not. In all other called outs on strikes the catcher must catch the ball or throw the runner out at first base in order to put him out on strikes."

Ball Hitting Batsman on Strikes.—"In the case of a third called strike the ball hits the batsman's person or touches his clothing, the batsman is out independent of his being caught or thrown out. Moreover, no bases can be run or run scored in case of a ball hitting the batsman under such circumstances."

The Two Kinds of Balks.—"Not only does the base runner on a base take a base on an illegal delivery of the ball to the bat, but the batsman also; and in case all the bases are occupied, or only third base a run is scored by such a balk. But when an ordinary balk—not involving the delivery of the ball—is made, in such case only base runners take bases and not the batsman."

Favoring the Ball in Base Running.—"The umpire must call the man running to first base safe, if he gets to the base at the same time the ball is held on the base. The ball must be held by the base player before the runner reaches it to declare him out."

Running Out of Line of Base.—"The base runner is not to be decided out for running out of the line of the bases only when an infield hit is made, and not when a long high ball is hit to the outfield."

Overrunning the Base.—"In overrunning first base the runner is not to be declared out if touched before reaching the base for turning to the left instead of the right, unless he turns to the left while on fair ground. He can turn to the left on foul ground."

Coaching.—"The coaching rule must be strictly enforced according to the letter of the law."

Captain Disputing Decision.—"The captain has no right to dispute the umpire's decision in any case in which a mere error of judgment is involved, but only when an illegal interpretation of the rules has been made. To dispute a decision as to whether a base runner was touched or not is to incur the penalty of a fine."

"Rule 60 must be strictly enforced."

NEW YORK VS. JASPER.—Damp grounds and a chilly afternoon, with only four of the National League team present, were among the conditions of the opening game at the Polo Grounds March 31, when they played the Jasper nine of Manhattan College. Ward, Ewing, Connor and Richardson of the New Yorks were present, the nine being made up by the addition of Lynch, Gerhardt, Fitzgerald, Troy and Becannon. Hammil pitched for the Jaspers, and he did good work up to the fifth inning, when the score stood at 3 to 3. The New Yorks then went to the front, and finally came in victors by 9 to 3. The Jaspers only made five hits off Lynch, who struck out fifteen men. Dick Pearce umpired the game.

THE representatives of the Central Inter-State League met March 26 in Chicago, Ill. The Fisher case was reopened and the former decision sustained. Allen of Rockford was given permission to transfer his club from Rockford to Milwaukee in case he saw fit. A rule was made requiring umpires to wear a uniform when on duty, and a committee arranged a schedule, the season opening May 1 and closing Sept. 30. The umpires are John McFadden, Frank Voris, Frank C. Lander and T. B. Shoaf.

W. B. TUTTLE of Denver, Col., has invented a system of keeping by a sign letter a correct record of National League games, showing at the same time where played and who won or lost. He has embodied it in a neat little book containing the necessary blanks which he calls the "Champion Baseball Record." It is intended for reporters and traveling men, and can be used for any association by a few changes.

THE SEASON in St. Louis, Mo., was opened March 25, when the champion Browns of the American Association contended with the Whites of the Western Association. Knouff and Kenyon alternated in pitching for the Browns who won by 8 to 0. The same clubs contended March 27, 28 and 29, the Browns being again credited with victories, the respective scores being 3 to 1, 6 to 4 and 9 to 3.

THE METROPOLITAN Amateur League nine includes the Nassau, New Jersey, Flushing, Staten Island Athletic Clubs, and Staten Island Cricket Club. The Nassaus will place Clare, Fauss, Taylor, Carr, Flynn, Boyd, Pike, Cassidy and McCullough in the field. The League will open the season at Washington Park May 12. Each club will hold the gate receipts on its own grounds.

MANAGER POWERS, of the Jersey City Club, has been obliged to cancel all dates of games to be played on the Jersey City grounds between April 9 and 14, in consequence of the inability to get the field in condition owing to the bad weather. He expects to have the opening game April 14 with the New York team as opponents.

SECRETARY WIKOFF has announced that the game scheduled for Philadelphia, between the Athletics and Clevelands, June 13, has been changed to April 26, by agreement. The games scheduled for Baltimore, between the Baltimores and Athletics, May 14 and 15, have been changed to Philadelphia on the same date.

MANAGER COMISKEY of the St. Louis Browns has placed his team for the exhibition campaign as follows: Comiskey, McGarr and Latham on the bases; Robinson, short stop, and O'Neil, McCarthy and Mann in the field. McGarr has shown up well at second base in the opening games, while Robinson has been quite at home at short stop.

A MEETING of representatives of the various baseball and athletic clubs of Halifax was held at that place March 27 for the purpose of forming an amateur baseball league. Two resolutions regarding amateurs were framed and sent to the various clubs for their consideration and to be reported back to the league at a meeting to be held April 11.

THE Stockton (Cal.) ball grounds are nearly completed, and will be the finest in the State. There is also a wide cinder bicycle track around the grounds. The first League game to be played there will be between the Stocktons and the Greenhoods and Morans of Oakland.

THE LOWELL team reported for duty on Monday, April 2. They play their first game with the Dartmouth College nine three days afterward. The grounds are being put in first class order, and a big boom is predicted for the national game in Lowell, Mass., the coming season.

THE ATHLETICS play the University of Pennsylvania nine April 4, and then they go to Washington to test their strength with the National League team of that city. On their return they play the Princeton team in Philadelphia, when they will put in King to pitch against his old college nine.

THE PHILADELPHIA team went to Baltimore March 31 and experimented against Barnie's team with a young pitcher named Sanders. Smith pitched for Baltimore, and the result was that the home team won by 4 to 3.

A SERIES of exhibition games are being arranged between the St. Louis Browns and Chicago, to be played in Chicago between April 8 and 12, if the weather be fine. If not, the games will be played in St. Louis during the same periods.

THE BROOKLYN CLUB'S grounds, at Washington Park, were too muddy for field practice March 31, and the reception game had to be deferred to April 4.

YALE'S PITCHER, Stagg, is likely to be with the nine for three more years, as he is to take a four years' course in the Divinity School at Yale.

Brooklyn vs. Newark.

The first Sunday game of the season in the metropolitan district was played April 1, at Ridgewood Park, Long Island, it being a close contest between the new teams of the Brooklyn and Newark Clubs. The weather, which was pleasant in the morning, turned quite Wintry in the afternoon, and the game had not proceeded far when rain began to fall, and it continued up to the sixth inning, interfering greatly with the play. The Brooklyns carried out the programme they have laid down for all their exhibition games this month, and that is to change their pitchers and catchers every three innings. The Newark team followed suit in this respect. The Newark batsmen faced the pitching of Terry in the first three innings, Peoples being his catcher. They got in two base hits, and scored a run by fielding errors. The home batsmen only made one safe hit off Doom's pitching, Sullivan being his catcher, they also getting in one run by fielding errors. In the fourth inning, Hughes went in the box to Holbert's catching, and the Newarks got in two safe hits off his pitching in the next three innings, and added another run through fielding errors. The Brooklyn batsmen in these three innings only got one clean hit off Baker's pitching, but they scored two runs by errors, and these gave them the game. In the seventh inning Caruthers and Bushong made up the Brooklyn "battery," Baker still keeping in the box for Newark, and in the five innings Caruthers pitched not a safe hit was made off his effective delivery, and the result was, after an exciting contest of eleven innings, that Newark retired defeated by 3 to 2. The working of the three strike rule was shown in the fact that fifteen batsmen struck out, and only seven safe hits were made. The score by innings is appended:

Base hits—Newark, 4; Brooklyn, 3. Battery errors—Newark, 6; Brooklyn, 2. Fielding errors—Newark, 5; Brooklyn 3. Base on errors—Newark, 1; Brooklyn 3. Umpire, Ferguson. Time, 2.09.

New York vs. Yale.

The Yale nine played April 2 at the Polo Grounds against the New Yorks. Six of the New York's regular team—O'Rourke, Connor, Richardson, Weidman, Ewing and Welch—were aided by Gerhardt, Troy and Fitzgerald. The collegians managed to close the seventh inning with the score of 3 to 2 in their favor. In the eighth Connor, O'Rourke and Fitzgerald made safe hits and, aided by errors, four runs were scored, and this gave them the victory. The score by innings was as follows:

Earned runs—New York, 1. Fielding errors—N. Y., 5; Yale, 5. Battery errors—N. Y., 6; Y., 7. Base hits—N. Y., 5; Y., 6. Struck out—Welch, 15; Stagg, 7. Umpire, Grace Pierce. Time, 2.10.

The Yales visited Newark April 3, and are to play the New York team again April 4, and with Brooklyn April 7.

To Work in a New Field.

The best baseball reporter The Boston Globe has ever had, William I. Harris, retired from that newspaper's staff March 31, and on April 1 assumed the duties of sporting editor of The Press of this city. Mr. Harris' trenchant and energetic pen may confidently be expected to add to The Press' popularity. He is a good newsgatherer, a picturesque writer and a cool headed and energetic journalist generally. The Press is to be congratulated.

RAIN prevented the Chicagos from playing more than one game last week in New Orleans, and that was an exciting contest of eleven innings with the local team. Five passed balls by Farrell and a close decision at the plate at the finish helped the New Orleans team to a victory, the totals being 4 to 2. Krock, who struck out no fewer than twenty-one of the home team, broke Hoover's thumb in the first inning, and nearly demoralized Farrell, who had to handle his very swift delivery for ten innings. Each club made only four safe hits. Van Haltren of the Chicagos did not go to New Orleans on his return from San Francisco.

MANAGER MUTRIE'S New York colts completed a successful Southern tour by playing the Charleston team March 30 and April 2 in Charleston, S. C. The New Yorks won the first game by a score of 4 to 1. Murphy, who had caught eighteen games since leaving home, hurt his hand in the first inning and retired. Eleven innings were played in the concluding contest, the score then standing a tie at 3. Murphy reappeared with the New Yorks and handled admirably the very swift pitching of Crane. A great catch by Titcomb at right field was the feature.

THE amateurs will open play on the free diamond fields at Prospect Park, Brooklyn, April 7. Each visiting party of players who desire grounds on any day at Prospect Park will have to get a permit from Superintendent Hamilton. Clubs who expect to play at the Park regularly will be given a season's permit. Charley Hunt will assign the fields for single day permits in the order in which the parties bring them to him. Brooklyn clubs will, of course, have the precedence over New York clubs, as the latter ought to have grounds at Central Park.

THE PROGRAMME for the Brooklyn exhibition games this week at Washington Park is as follows: Wednesday, opening reception game; Thursday, with Williams College nine; Friday, with Nassau Athletic Club's nine, which includes Pike, Cassidy and Boyd; Saturday, with Yale. Sunday, April 8, the Jersey City team will open their season with the Brooklyns at Ridgewood Park, when there will be a large delegation from Newark and Jersey City. Next week Brooklyn plays Amherst April 10, Worcester 11, Princeton 12, Lowell 13, and Syracuse 14.

MANAGER HALSTROM, of the Danville (Ill.) Club, expects to win the championship of the Inter-State League. His players include Loutz, Grim and Mayer, of last year's team, together with Kirwin, Esterquest, Schnor, Hagerman, Lindley and Brimblecorn. Their first exhibition game is with the Chicago Maroons April 14.

THE Cincinnatis opened the season at home April 2 by defeating the visiting Indianapolis Club by a score of 7 to 1. Six safe hits were made by each club. Reilly and Glasscock led in batting, each having three hits. Viau pitched for Cincinnati, and Healy and Shreve alternated in the box for Indianapolis.

IN Philadelphia, April 2, the Athletics easily beat the Williams College nine, 27 to 5. Blair, the new left handed pitcher of the professionals, held the collegians down to four scattering hits, one of which was a triple by Cox when three men were on the bases.

A BASEBALL OPERA, with an umpire as the villain and a pitcher as the hero, will shortly be produced. Paul Eaton of Washington is the author. Baseball has, indeed, invaded the stage, and we understand that Percy Plunkett is organizing two teams of actors to play ball this Summer.

HARRY WRIGHT'S Philadelphias played again in Baltimore, Md., April 2, when they reversed the result of the preceding contest, and won by a score of 4 to 1. The reserve team of the Philadelphia Club played on the same day at home, defeating the Allentown team, 12 to 0.

SAVANNAH, Ga., will have no professional club this year, but will enter a team, under the management of Ed. Brown, in an association embracing clubs with professional batteries in Macon and Columbus, Ga., and Jacksonville, Fla.

NINE brothers named De Cantillon of Brooklyn express themselves ready to play against any other nine brothers. About ten years ago nine players named Madden starred throughout New England.

THE Acmes—the semi-professional champions of this city—play Sunday, April 8, at Arctic Park, with the Olympics of Harlem. Harry Curtis, 44 Murray Street, is the manager of the Acme Club.

M. S. CUMMINGS is the manager of a club recently organized in Saratoga, N. Y. An association is to be formed of clubs in adjacent towns, to be called the Saratoga League.

A LARGE ASSEMBLAGE witnessed the opening game of the season in Washington, D. C., April 2, when the home team defeated the Buffalos by 13 to 4.

A GAME was played April 2 in Newark, N. J., the Central League team then defeating the Acmes, 12 to 2.

BRIDGPORT, Ct., will be represented in the Connecticut League. The Cuban Giants play there [illegible]

THE Tri-State League includes the representative clubs of Canton, Columbus, Lima, Mansfield Sandusky, Toledo and Zanesville, O.; Kalamazoo and Jackson, Mich., and Wheeling, W. Va.

THE season in Louisville, Ky., was opened April 1, when the visiting Memphis team defeated the local professionals by a score of 8 to 6.

THE ST. LOUIS BROWNS were beaten in the two games played March 30 and 31 in Memphis, Tenn., the local professionals winning by the respective scores of 5 to 3 and 4 to 3. The much talked of Spring series of games between the St. Louis and Detroit Clubs, was commenced April 2 in New Orleans, La. The competing nines were: St. Louis—King, pitcher; Boyle, catcher; Comiskey, McGarr and Latham on the bases; Robinson, short stop, and O'Neil, McCarthy and Mann in the outfield. Detroit—Getzein pitcher; Broughton, catcher; Brouthers, Richardson and White on the bases; Schieback, short stop, and Twitchell, Conway and Thompson in the outfield. The Browns outbatted and outfielded their opponents, and won by 5 to 3. King kept the Detroits down to four scattering safe hits. Manager Watkins and President Von der Ahe of the two clubs are quarreling over the question whether these games are for the world's championship. Von der Ahe says that they were so arranged, and if the St. Louis Browns won the series he would claim the championship, and bill the team as champions of America. Other games of the series will be played in New Orleans April 4, Memphis 5, and St. Louis 13 and 14.

WE HAVE received an advance copy of Spalding's Baseball Guide for 1888. This is the twelfth annual edition of a work which is generally recognized as an authority on all matters pertaining to the National League, containing, as it alone does, its official statistics. In addition there are several new and interesting features, prominent among which are the explanatory appendix to the newly revised code of playing rules, and special statistics of the series of contests for the world's championship. This is by far the best edition of the work that has yet been published and its variety of information makes it both useful and interesting to professionals and amateurs alike.

ARRANGEMENTS have been perfected to reorganize the Hudson River League, with representative clubs in Yonkers, Nyack, Haverstraw, Fishkill, Poughkeepsie, Hudson, Kingston and Peekskill, N. Y. A meeting will be held April 6 in Poughkeepsie, when officers will be elected for the ensuing year. James Jackson is taking an active part in the reorganization of this Association, which he formed in 1886. The Cuban Giants and the Gorham Club—two well known teams of colored players—have been invited to join.

WM. J. COLVER, a promising young professional of Detroit, Mich., died March 24 in that city, from the effects of a surgical operation performed for an injury sustained some time ago. He graduated from the Cass team of his native city into the professional ranks two years ago, and played short stop during the early part of last season with the Zanesvilles, finishing with the Kalamazoo. He was twenty-one years old, and had signed for the coming season with the Hutchinson, Kas., Club.

"PLAY BALL" is the title of a collection of interesting stories and reminiscences told by Mike Kelly, the star player of the Boston Club, to be issued April 10. This new contribution to the literature of the national game will be sent by mail to any address on receipt of twenty-five cents.

THE REPORT of the death of Jules Pujol in New Orleans was premature. He was shot by a policeman in a drunken row March 4, but was discharged as cured from the hospital after a sojourn there of three weeks, and it is expected he will be again seen on the diamond as a member of the local team this season.

BICYCLE ACCIDENT.—Prof. Edward Paul, principal of the High School at Washington, D. C., while riding a bicycle on the Fourteenth Street road, early on the evening of March 31, collided with a horse ridden by a colored man in the employ of Senator Cullom, and was knocked down. Dr. Thompson discovered that Paul had suffered a fracture of the spine and was paralysed from the shoulders down. The doctor could not tell whether the paralysis was due to the fracture of the spinal column or partially to the shock of the collision. The physician feared if it did not prove fatal, it might result in permanent disability.

BILLIARDS.

Amateur Tournament.

The second annual tournament for the amateur billiard championship of the United States, under the auspices of the Racquet Court Club of New York, will commence on the evening of May 14; entries to close on April 30. A suitable cup will be offered by the president of the club as an emblem of the championship, to be held by the winner until the next tournament, and to become the property of any player succeeding in winning the same three times. The conditions of the tournament are: Contestants must be amateurs of undoubted standing, the committee reserving the right to reject any entry, and they will be required to sign a statement embodying the following definition of an amateur billiard player, which has been adopted by the club: "One who has never competed in any open to all contest, nor played for a purse or gate money, nor received pecuniary benefit in any way from such contests. One who has never at any period of his life been proprietor of, or employed in a billiard room, nor ever taught or pursued billiards as a means of livelihood; nor ever been engaged in the manufacture or sale of billiard tables." The game is three ball French caroms, on a 5 by 10 table, 300 points up, except in case of a tie, when the final and decisive game shall be 500 points. Each contestant will play with every other contestant, unless the entries are too numerous, in which case they will be drawn by lot in pairs, the losers retiring.

RULES OF THE TOURNAMENT.

1. Each player will have the privilege of naming an umpire to act in accordance with the playing rules adopted by the committee. The committee will appoint a referee for each game, whose decisions in all matters of dispute shall be final.

2. The committee will designate the contestants and the hour of playing for each game. Any contestant not appearing within thirty minutes after the hour named for the commencement of a game shall forfeit the same to his adversary, unless, in the discretion of the committee, there is satisfactory excuse for his failure to appear.

3. In case of a contestant withdrawing from the tournament before playing his full quota of games, the games that he shall have played will not be counted in the scores of the remaining players, and will be stricken from the record of the tournament.

4. The committee have adopted as the playing rules of the tournament those governing the three-ball carom game, adopted by the contestants in the international tournament for the championship of the world, June 23-30, 1873, and those contained in the rules of the American or four-ball game, relating to the duties of umpires and referees, so far as they do not conflict with any of the foregoing sections.

The committee desire to state that gentlemen who are interested in the game, and who wish cards of admission, can obtain them by applying at the club house on and after May 7. It is by no means intended that admission shall be confined to members of clubs. Address all communications: "Secretary Amateur Billiard Championship Committee, Racquet Court Club, 55 West 26th Street, New York." The committee is composed of Isaac Townsend, A. Wright Sandford, A. P. Montant, Y. Martinez, D. R. Offley, C. Lawrence Perkins, Wm. Clarke Stewart and Walter Stanton.

The Fifteen Ball Pool Championship.

It is impossible at this time to predict whether there will be a tournament this Spring in this city or the efforts now being made by the players themselves will fail to accomplish that end. Judging from the general tone of people who to the knowledge of the writer are patrons of these tournaments, there is every reason to believe that a tourney at this time would be attended with much success. Young Clearwater, who won the recent Syracuse tourney in good style against all of the crack players (Frey excepted), is here, and in company with Powers is seeking subscriptions from the leading roomkeepers of this city, and, we believe, with fair prospects of success. That Frey will not enter, as reported to some extent around town since negotiations were started, is all bosh. He informed the writer during the past week that he would certainly enter, and also would contribute as liberally as any other roomkeeper to push the proposed contest to a successful issue. The tournament, if played, should not be delayed beyond the present, or, at the latest, the coming month.

The Grote Emblem.

Publishers of billiard gossip and "news," in this and many other cities, state that young Clearwater has challenged De Oro for the pool championship and the Grote emblem. Were it even stale "news" to the patrons of billiards, there might perhaps be some interest attached to it, but when, as that player informed the writer on April 2, it is a canard, it must be placed under the head of snap possibilities. Regarding the future of the emblem, De Oro states that upon June 2 it becomes his property by limitation, and, while regretting that the prospects of a challenge for the trophy were dubious, yet he hoped that there would be one more contest for its possession. Family and business matters call him to Cuba on May 1, when he will take the emblem with him, but will play any challenger who journeys there. He also wished it to be made known that he is open to play anybody at pool before departure, or will accept any challenge to play in Cuba.

THAT OLD TIME BILLIARDIST, Matt H. Hewins, prominently identified with Connecticut billiards since his boyhood, sends to THE CLIPPER the following item of interest: "The first championship game will be played at my rooms on Monday, April 9, between Fred Hawks, champion, and John Kingsbury, challenger, both of New Haven. The game will be 500 points, 8 inch balk line. The emblem is a billiard table and must be held against all players for fifteen months; open only for residents of Connecticut. The holder is allowed sixty days grace after receipt of challenge."

THE venerable Mel Foster, well and favorably known to this and past generations of billiard players, is again in charge of the room at the Rossmore Hotel, this city. It was an ill advised move when Mel relinquished this position to assume charge of the Suburban, which had such an inglorious ending, and the writer was informed that his re-engagement is "for keeps."

ON TUESDAY, April 10, Clearwater, winner of the recent tournament in Syracuse, and Powers, the Chicago expert, journey to Hartford, Ct., where they are to give an exhibition at Matt H. Hewins' rooms, assisted by John J. Murphy, pool champion of Connecticut.

A BILLIARD and pool tournament is to be organized in Pittsburg. For the billiard tournament the names of Schaefer, Slosson, Daly and Sexton are mentioned, while for the pool tournament it is said that all the pool players of the country will enter. It is proposed to play the tournaments in the spacious hall of the London Theatre. Mr. Myers of the Pittsburg branch of the B., B., C. Co., and Harry Davis of the London Theatre, are the prime movers in the affair.

CHARLES SLOSSON, late of the Rossmore Billiard Room, has met with a bereavement in which he will receive the sympathy of his brother professionals. His wife died the same day that he severed his connection with the Rossmore Hotel.

W. J. PEALL and W. Mitchell played a match for $500 a side and the spot stroke championship of England, 15,000 points up, level, at the Royal Aquarium, London, closing March 17. Peall was the winner, the score at the close standing: Peall, 15,000; Mitchell, 6,753.

JOHN DUGAN, the friend and employe of Wm. Sexton, died at his residence in this city on March 30, aged thirty-eight years. The funeral was held from his late home in Harlem April 1. Interment in Calvary.

ORVILLE ODDIE JR. is in active training at Heiser's Brooklyn room in preparation for the coming amateur billiard tournament for the championship of the United States, which is to begin in this city May 14.

PATSY FITZGERALD is again in the clutches of his old enemy, rheumatism, and has been obliged to lay off for the present.

CHARLES SCHAEFER will manage Jacob Schaefer's St. Louis room during the latter's Eastern trip. Richard Roche has gone to the Hot Springs.

JOHN D. O'CONNOR is mending as rapidly as could be expected.

THE New Jersey Yacht Club held their annual meeting in Hoboken March 29, at which the following officers were elected to serve one year: Commodore, Edwin A. Stevens; vice commodore, Frederick Bel:z; treasurer, Charles J. Rogers; recording secretary, William E. Kinzey; corresponding secretary, George E. Gartland; financial secretary, John D. Goetschius; measurer, John Ortley. Regatta committee—John Curtin, William E. Kinzey and Richard Outwater. The date of the annual regatta was fixed for June 19, the course being the same as usual, in the upper and lower bays. Pat McGlehan has built three boats for members of the club during the past Winter.

DAVY'S boat building establishment in Cambridge, Mass., was burned on the morning of March 28. There were about twenty single shells, the most of them completed, some new and others being repaired, in the shop at the time, only two of which escaped damage. Few of them were injured by fire, but all but those two were more or less damaged by rough handling in being removed from the building. Mr. Davy is looking about for a new site, and will probably locate in South Boston, near the Shawmut Club boat house.

JERRY CASEY of Boston, Mass., has challenged Patrick Dempsey of Philadelphia to row him a match race, either two or three miles, for from $250 to $500 a side, at some time and place that may be mutually agreeable. He has posted $100 with a contemporary at the Hub in support of his proposition, and says that he will meet Dempsey at any place in New York City that the Philadelphian may choose to designate, within the next two weeks, for the purpose of signing articles.

THE Mississippi Valley Amateur Rowing Association will hold their annual regatta at Pullman, Ill., but the date has not yet been decided upon. Miller to Muldoon.

The reasons why Professor Miller has not accepted the challenge issued through these columns by William Muldoon are given in the following communication:

BALTIMORE, Md., April 1, 1888.

EDITOR NEW YORK CLIPPER—Dear Sir: I have been suffering from a severe attack of rheumatism in my broken ankle, which will prevent me from making any wrestling match at present. As a result of the change from a warm to a cold climate, I had during my stay in New York to use frequent applications of soap liniament, which I had never done before since my recovery. The liquid was obtained by me from Holman's drug store, 381 Fourth Avenue. I consider myself greatly handicapped for wrestling, on account of having a broken wrist, broken rib and broken ankle, which is the reason that I have never issued challenges for wrestling alone, open to all comers, since my arrival in America. If my ankle gets strong enough for me to risk money on a wrestling match, Muldoon shall certainly have the first chance. I found my ankle fail me considerably during my recent wrestling contest against Acton, which was no doubt due to the cold and wet weather. Muldoon is considered an adept with the boxing gloves. If he will make a match for boxing and Graeco-Roman wrestling, we will have no difficulty in coming to terms as I consider that, although I may suffer a disadvantage from my weak ankle, chances

GEORGE SKINNER is to manage a seventy-two hour race at Providence, R. I., starting at 11 A. M. Among the entries are Hegelman, Guerrero, Taylor and Sullivan.

IN ANSWER to the challenge issued by H. M. Johnson to Harry Bethune, the latter says that he will run Johnson his choice of 100, 125 or 150 yards, for any amount he wishes to put up above $1,000, and if he will post a forfeit with THE CLIPPER he will over it "before it gets cold."

HAPPY JACK SMITH trained Hegelman and Guerrero for the race at Worcester, Mass., last week, but now takes charge of Daniel Herty, winner of that event, whom he will prepare for the coming six days' race at Madison Square Garden.

FRANK LALLY, the famous Canadian goal keeper, has retired from active membership in the Cornwall Lacrosse Club, and his loss will be sorely felt by that organization.

G. ULRICK won the final heat in George Turner's 880yds. handicap at Pastime Park, Philadelphia, March 31. J. Stewart was second, G. White third, and the race was won by two yards.

THE Tiffany Rovers of Newark, N. J., visited Ansonia, Ct., March 30, and defeated the Ansonia team by a score of five goals to two.

It being a semi-holiday, and the weather being Spring-like, there was a large crowd at the course on Friday afternoon. The track was in fairly good condition, and four of the favorites won. DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL NOTES.

— In a letter dated at Providence, R. I., Manager Samuel B. Villa refutes the statement made last week by J. J. VARIETY, MINSTREL AND CIRCUS.

MCNISH, JOHNSON & SLAVIN'S MINSTRELS had a most original and exciting experience at Rome, Ga., last Thursday morning. On the previous day they roached Rome in a terrific rainstorm, which continued steadily until the following morning, causing the river to rise until water covered all the streets to the depth of three feet. The minstrels were in a dilemma, and were due at Chattanooga the same day; but blizzards and floods are mere episodes to our energetic minstrel boys, and they were equal to the occasion. All the boats in the city were pressed into service, trunks, properties and actors crowded in, and with a "Heave, ho!" they pulled merrily to the railway station, only to find that no train could reach the city from the South. Then began a series of negotiations for a special train, which was finally secured, but which was to start three miles up the road on dry ground. The boys all lent a hand, the baggage was all reloaded into the boats, the band got out their paraphernalia of music, and away they started in a watery procession up the main street, the band sending forth lively melodies, the boys pulling and singing merrily "Paddle Your Own Canoe," until at last dry ground and the special train were reached, when away they flew to Chattanooga at the rate of fifty miles an hour. It was feared they would be unable to meet the engagement, for news of Rome's inundation had preceded them; but when they did arrive, and the story of their heroic efforts to swim out had become noised abroad, they were the heroes of the hour, and at night were greeted with an immense house. Of course the end men got in some ready shots about "wet water parades," "oh, Rome, beautiful Rome!" "our morning bath," "row the boat lightly, love, etc., all of which being understood, caused the performance to go with great vim.

A CORRECTION.—The statement made to THE CLIPPER last week by F. W. Ramza, of Ramza and Arno, relative to his temporary substitution for Rose Austin, in the act of the Austin Sisters, was not correctly printed. We have received letters of denial from Mrs. Austin, from Manager R. G. Austin, and, finally, from all the members of the Austin Australian Novelty Co., asserting that Mr. Ramza appeared on only one occasion, and that he did not then wholly accomplish his duties as a substitute. The cold facts seem to be that Mrs. Austin was taken suddenly ill at Indianapolis, Ind., and that Mr. Ramza volunteered to assist Aimee Austin for that night. He failed to do all the catches required, and, after repeated trials, the turn was finally cut short. On the following evening Rose Austin reappeared, and has since been constantly at work. Her illness was of a slight nature, and during the entire season she has lost only one night, Aimee has had a perfect record. Mr. Ramza last week called upon THE CLIPPER, and admitted the truth of the foregoing. He explains that he was incorrectly reported, thus causing a wrong impression, which, if suffered to go uncontradicted, would tend to the injury of Mr. Austin and his notably successful company. The moral of it is that performers should exercise scrupulous care in statements of a nature as important as the one in point.

DEATHS IN THE PROFESSION.

MICHAEL J. BRADLEY.—News of the sudden death of this favorite comedian and dancer will be learned with regret by a host of his admirers. He passed away at the New York Hospital, this city, Monday night, April 2. About three weeks ago he ruptured a blood vessel of his stomach, but he continued in the cast of "Pete" at Harrigan's Park Theatre, this city, until March 28, on which night he appeared for the last time. On the 31st he was taken to the hospital, where he sank rapidly, becoming delirious Sunday, April 1, and finally expiring 2. He was, we believe, born about 1855, and was married. He leaves a sister, Mrs. McGowan. He had been a valuable member of Edward Harrigan's company for about fifteen years, and of late seasons had acted as director of the dance features of Mr. Harrigan's productions. He had, besides, coached many prominent actors and actresses in dancing. As an Irish comedian he long ago made an enviable mark in Mr. Harrigan's forces. We are forced to defer a detailed account of his career until our next issue.

GEORGE W. CHATTERTON, proprietor of Chatterton's Opera House, Springfield, Ill., died at his residence in that city, March 27, of paralysis. The deceased was born in Utica, N. Y., and when a boy was apprenticed to learn the jewelry business in this city. In 1842 he went to Spring field, Ill., and entered the jewelry store of his uncle, Chas. Chatterton. He labored faithfully at the business and soon purchased an interest in it. In 1874 he came to New York to engage in the manufacture of jewelry, but in 1880 again returned to Springfield. The deceased was one of the most public spirited men in Springfield, being always foremost in contributions to anything of interest to the city. Through his indefatigable efforts Springfield secured the State fair in 1854-6, and at a later period. In 1879 he bought Bunn's Opera House, which he has since successfully managed. He leaves his wife, two sons, George W. Jr. and R. Irwin, and a daughter, Mrs. Charles V. Hickox. No change will be made in the theatre's executive staff at present.

ROBERT WAREING, proprietor of H. R. Jacobs' Hoboken, N. J., Theatre, died at his residence in that city March 29, of consumption. Mr. Wareing was born in Paterson, N. J., thirty-nine years ago. At the breaking out of the war he went to the battlefields and sold newspapers. He was captured and lodged in the prison at Andersonville. Because of his youth he was allowed liberties, and with this advantage he arranged with other Union prisoners to escape. After the war he located in Hoboken, and after several reverses entered the theatrical business and opened a first class variety house, which was a success. He then constructed the present handsome theatre. Mr. Wareing developed into a mesmerist, but it was noticed that his health began to fail after giving exhibitions of his powers in controlling subjects. He failed rapidly, and a few years ago, unable to attend to business, he leased his theatre to H. R. Jacobs. He leaves a widow and seven children, the youngest only a year old.

ADELE GOBUY, mother died in Amsterdam, Holland, Feb. 24, of a complication of diseases.

THOMAS FLOWERS, actor, was found dead in his room at 242 East Seventy-fourth Street, this city, March 30. He was fifty-nine years old. The police think he committed suicide, as the gas was turned on when they found his body.

THE demise of Mrs. C. P. Duane (Mollie Rayner) is made known in our Musical and Dramatic Notes.

LESTER JORDAN, formerly doing leading business with the Edith Arnold Co., but of late a member of the Museum stock, Wichita, Kas., died in that city March 17, of congestion of the lungs. His father is a prominent newspaper man of Fargo, Dak., being editor and proprietor of The Fargo Daily Republican, and had made arrangements for Lester to quit the profession and accept an interest in the above mentioned newspaper plant. The professional people of the city covered his casket with floral tributes, and on 27 his remains were shipped to Morristown, Minn., where they will be interred in the family burial place. He was twenty-one years of age, and had been in the business five years.

HARRY OSBORNE, a brief mention of whose death in Los Angeles, Cal., March 10, we made in a previous issue, last appeared on the stage in "Chispa" at a benefit tendered him by the Grismer-Davies Co. at Los Angeles, Cal., during their recent visit there. He was the husband of Fannie Wentworth, and as a sketch team they were great favorites on this side of the Mississippi. Early in 1882 they journeyed to San Francisco, and joined the stock at the California Theatre, under Fred Bert's management. Subsequently they made a tour of the Northwest circuit with a company of their own, known as The Osborne Oddities. The deceased was a member in good standing of the B. P. Order of Elks, which organization ably assisted the Perry Bros., of the Club Theatre, Los Angeles, in his interment.

HARRY BLAND, a promising actor, died March 6, at Aston, near Birmingham, Eng. He had played in comic opera and burlesque, and, after the death of one of the Brothers Webb, undertook the part of one of the Dromios at the invitation of the survivor. He played with Barry Sullivan. As Jacques he supported Adelaide Neilson in "As You Like It," and was also a member of Charles Matthews' last touring company.

THE RING.

GEORGE HAGAN and Paddy McBride, the former weighing nearly thirty pounds more than his antagonist, were opponents in a fight with hard gloves for a purse of $100, in the outskirts of Philadelphia, on the night of March 29. Neither man had trained for the contest, which was a sort of off hand affair, but the combatants are both possessed of considerable science, and as there was much ill feeling existing between them the fight was of the most determined character. Hagan was considered to have somewhat the best of the milling when, in the nineteenth round, a cry of "police" caused a scattering, and, although the alarm proved to be false, the fighters concluded to call the contest a draw and divide the money.

JOE COBURN, the ex-champion heavyweight, will be the recipient of a benefit at Parepa Hall, Third Avenue and Eighty-sixth Street, this city, on the evening of Monday, April 9. A host of attractions will be presented on the occasion, and for the wind up those who attend are promised something that should prove very entertaining—a set-to between Coburn and the middleweight champion, Jack Dempsey. Few lovers of the art will care to miss such a treat as this. Among the many boxers who will assist at the entertainment will be those clever artists and great ring generals, Billy Edwards and Arthur Chambers, whose mimic combats always afford the liveliest satisfaction.

YOUNG GIBBONS of Paterson, N. J., and Jim Leahy of Elizabethport fought on the deck of a steamer up the Hudson River on the night of March 28, the latter having taken the place of Jack Bates of Youngstown, O., who failed to keep his engagement with the Paterson pug. The fighting, which was done in a ring of a small dimension, was quite even up till the fifth round, in which Gibbons took a strong lead, and in the following round he knocked his man out and was proclaimed the winner, the fight having lasted 21m. 40s.

CHARLEY DUNN of Newcastle and Jim Fogarty of Sydney fought with gloves for $250 a side and the whole of the gate receipts, in Sydney, Aus., Jan. 30. They are middleweights, and the affair is described as the most genuine contest that had been witnessed there for a long time. Eighteen rounds were fought, in the last of which Fogarty planted the right on the jaw, which sent Dunn to sleep and gave the battle to the former. Fogarty was attended by Tom Taylor and Paddy Gorman, while Tom Kelly supported Dunn, who had as advisers Professor Jackson, Dooley and Frank Hewitt.

BURKE VS. FOLEY.—The disappointing six round boxing contest between Jack Burke and Larry Foley at the latter's hall in Sydney, Aus., last Fall, has been supplemented with a match to a finish between them. The men are to wear two ounce gloves, and the stakes are $2,500 a side, open for double that amount, the fight to take place either on boards or turf, at some place to be hereafter agreed upon, on May 1. The contest will take place in private, each principal to be allowed half a dozen friends besides his seconds.

A GLOVE FIGHT, limited to fifteen rounds, was fought in a room in this city on March 24, the principals being Jack Docharty of Philadelphia, and George Reynolds of this city. The latter is about eleven pounds the heavier man, and was the aggressor, but his antagonist was the more skillful, and dealt out more punishment than he received. The result was a draw, and that both combatants had enough of fighting was evidenced by the fact that they declined a proposition to double the purse if they would battle five rounds more.

JIM ADDS and Charley Jackson fought in the old style for $100 within a few miles of London, Eng., on March 13. For an hour there was little to choose between the combatants, and it seemed likely that the battle would last twice that long, but soon afterwards Jackson began to throw out signals of distress, and his opponent received the office to go in and finish him. He obeyed instructions willingly, and at the end of the fifty-fifth round Jackson gave in, the fight having lasted 1h. 26m. 55s.

A COUPLE of local boxers named Duval and Francis contended for $100 a side and gate receipts at Turner's Hall, Leadville, Col., on March 17. It was quite a lively affair while it lasted, of the give and take order, Jack being about as good as his master. Francis gained first knockdown, and Duval scored first blood. The engagement was becoming very interesting when Francis delivered a right hander on Duval's head, breaking his hand. At this juncture the authorities put a stop to the fun.

JACK HAVLIN took a benefit at Music Hall, Boston, Mass., on the evening of March 28. It was a very successful affair, about 2,500 persons being present, while the show itself was first class. The wind-up was between the beneficiary and his old opponent, Ike Weir. It consisted of six rounds of very lively boxing, and at the close the general opinion was that the "Spider" had improved considerably during his absence from the Hub, and that he had decidedly the best of Havlin, clever as the latter showed himself to be.

DALY VS. CARROLL.—Another match has been made between Mike Daly of Bangor, Me., and Jimmy Carroll of Boston, Mass., who are to fight to a finish, under Blanchard rules, which provide for a twenty foot ring and allow twelve seconds for a man to get upon his feet after going down, for $500 a side, a purse of $1,000, and the lightweight championship of America, within fifty miles of Boston. They will wear two ounce gloves.

JACK HOPPER, the west side boxer who had the misfortune to fracture his arm while fighting with California Dempsey, has been tendered a benefit at Hudson Hall, Hoboken, N. J. It will take place on Wednesday evening, April 11, and as his brother boxers will doubtless turn out well to assist him, the show should be first rate.

JIM FELL of Grand Rapids, Mich., and George La Blanche of Boston, Mass., have been matched to fight to a finish with small gloves for $1,000 a side, within one hundred and fifty miles of Detroit, on or about May 15.

WILLIAM SIMS and Jim Sherman, both colored, fought for a purse in a barn near Brighton, Pa., on Wednesday evening, March 28. They battled with three ounce gloves, and eighteen rounds were contested, Sims being knocked out in the last.

THE champion belt of New Zealand and $250 a side was boxed for by Laing and Matthews, at the Drill Hall, Wanganui, Jan. 4. The former was declared the winner at the end of the fourth round, Matthews having never been in it.

J. C. CURTIS and Frank Taylor, alias "Black Frank," fought fifteen rounds with soft gloves at the theatre in Duluth, Minn., March 23, the contest ending in a draw, and the purse of $100 and gate receipts being equally divided.

PETER SAXON and John Ahern met again March 30, near Avondale, N. J., and fought with three ounce gloves for a purse of $100. Saxon knocked his opponent out of time in the sixth round.

CHARLEY JOICE, the boxing instructor, died in London, Eng., March 10, his death being due to an attack of acute pleurisy and consequent congestion of the lungs.

MRS. ELIZABETH RUSK, widow of the late Matt Rusk, died in Philadelphia on March 18, in the seventy-third year of her age.

ED. NILAND and James Dohaney fought eleven rounds at Hessville, Ind., March 29, the latter being defeated.

BURNS VS. SUTTON.—The second deposit of $200 a side, making a total of $600 now up, has been posted by the backers of Mike Burns and Pat Sutton, both Waterbury, Ct., pugilists. The match is for $500 a side, probably the largest amount ever posted for a bona fide fight in that section, and the event, which is to be decided in May, is looked forward to with much interest by the sporting fraternity thereabouts. The men are very evenly matched so far as weight and height are concerned. Burns is twenty-seven years old, 5ft. 7in. high, and weighs 170lb. Sutton is twenty-five years old, 5ft. 7in. high, and will fight at about 160lb. Both men have had some little experience in the ring, Sutton having won a four-teen round fight with Sam Kettle, June 16, 1882, and fought an eight round draw with Gus Zills, Jan. 20 last. Burns' experience has been mostly confined to exhibitions, the most noteworthy being his encounter with La Blanche, the Marine, at Burns' benefit, Jan. 19 last, when Burns was knocked out in the second round. He was unwell at the time.

THOMAS MULCAHEY and Jack Doris fought twenty-five rounds not far from Yonkers, N. Y., on the evening of March 21. Both are local lights. They displayed great gameness, responding quickly to the call of time for each round. London prize ring rules governed. Every fall was won by Davis, although his opponent was larger and stronger. Time of fight, 42m.

D. H. SUNDERLAND, Freeport, Ill.—We have looked up Problem 1,592, and see no reason to doubt its accuracy in all respects. It's a beauty.

R. E. LAMBERT, St. Peter, Minn.—Get "Cook's Synopsis," of Will H. Lyons, Newport, Ky.

J. B. REDWINE AND J. A. CARSON.—You see there is more in Problem 1,626 than you "dreamed of in your philosophy." Traps for the unwary deftly set, eh?

T. A. HALLETT.—Tall feather in your cap.

CAPT. HUNTINGTON.—We compliment you on your excellent setting out; a long and prosperous career to you. Thanks for the courteous notice of M. C. A. meeting, but our proposed attendance on Sixth Am. Ch. Congress will preclude our going elsewhere.

CHAS. DEVIDE.—Be assured such contributions are superlatively welcome.

J. C. BIRD, St. Louis.—We say of your efforts in our behalf what we've just said to "C. D." There is a discrepancy between your last diagram and its description. You say: "After (so and so) it's a win, while White has two plus pawns." But White has three plus, and it is incredible that Black's one P can win vs. four, united in pairs and passed. We await returns. Will take that "codicil" into consideration.

Game No. 1,623.

The last number of the new Boston Post column gives us the following revival of the "Stone Ware Defence to the Evans." Messrs. Snow and Harlow vs. Ware and Austin.

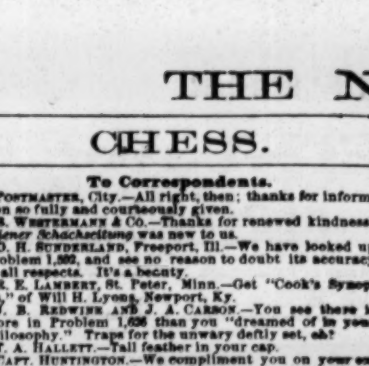
Read and Laugh.

Our prized contributor, Bro. Devide, of the Columbia C. C., has struck out a bit of philosophy so forcible in itself and so amusing in the illustration he writes us, that we spread his letter on the record. Thesis.—A good chess player must have psychological knowledge. In the game here illustrated I had to give the odds of Kt to J. H. Todd, and he not only did not commit any blunder, but actually always played the best moves until the following position arose. I was, in his own words, "a gone goose;" and my well wishing friends standing by, among whom were some very strong players, could not see the slightest chance of my escaping immediate defeat. Now comes in the psychologie.

BLACK (Mr. Todd).



WHITE (Mr. Devide).

The above was the position after Black's forty-first move. If I move K R from K B file, he will capture B P—that is beyond question. Furthermore, he has so concentrated his attack against my Q Kt P, that his next move will be Kt to Q 6, especially if I give him a chance to attack my R and Kt P at the same time. This, too, was a foregone conclusion; and while he was singing "Yer licked!" to the mournful tune of "The Harp that Once Through Tara's Halls," I quietly moved 42. R (fr K B 2) to Q 3, on which 42. Kt gobbled B P, of course. To 43. R back to K B 2, Kt Q 6, exclaiming: "I'll make you sorry you ever were born!" This I answered with 44. R × P +, "that's nothin', I take (Kt P × R), and I won't allow ye another +." 45. P to Kt 6, check! "I can take it off, and your + with R is no good—but I wont, there!" planting his K at home. Then rapidly followed, 46. P to Kt 7, Q R × P check! (very loud); 47. Q × Q R, Kt to Kt 5 (very quiet); 48. P (Q) +, K to K 2; 49. R to K 2, and Mr. Todd resigns.

Chessikin.

Twenty years ago, G. Reichheim, now of Philadelphia Times, gave a weaker brother the Q Kt, and, as Jas. Thompson used to say in like cases, "played that game a little too well."

BLACK (Senor Golmayo).

WHITE (Mr. Steinitz).

Move made—10. K Kt to his 5! A brilliant stroke that wins the game—but, of course, in a most unsatisfactory manner, since it violates several cardinal principles of the "modern school in its direct attack on the King's side," and its manifest substitution of sacrificial "combination" for positional "strategy." [A very neat skit, indeed. If nothing worse than this bit of badinage had passed between the parties, the chess world would have leaned back in its easy chair and indulged in a series of guffaws to shake its fat sides from centre to circumference. Say what you may, this overmastering truth remains—however much the "modern school" system of tactics may mean to the few professional masters of chess theory, it has no place whatever in the practice of the vast bulk of chess amateurs to whom, of happy necessity, the game must remain an amusement, an intellectual one, indeed, but still a relaxation from graver cares. Chess would, and rightly, soon fall into desuetude if every game had to be made a mental labor of Hercules, and on sitting down one had to feel very much as though its loss was to be followed by a drumhead court martial and a military execution.—ED. CLIP.] Perhaps our readers would like to see the actual termination.

10. Kt to his 5!	B P × Kt!	15. P to K Kt 4	R × K P +
11. K B × P + !	K × K B	16. K-Q sq	K B-K 6
12. R P × P dis +	K-Kt sq	17. Q B × B	K R × B
13. Q-K R 5!	K Kt × P (e)	18. Kt-his 5 (!)	K R-B 6
14. B P × Kt	K R-B 4 (f)	19. P-Kt 6, and Black succumbs to the inevitable—and his own opening.

(d) P to K B 4 seems imperative.

(e) Far better seems B to B 7 +, continued:

14. K × K B	K Kt × P	16. B P × Kt	K to K dis +,
15. Q-R 7 +	K-B 2	and Black 17. Kt × P, etc.

(f) Why not 14. Kt × P; 15. P to Kt 6 (!!), Kt × P!; 16. Q × Kt, Q to B 3, etc.?

(!) Completely shuts off the Black King's every avenue of escape after the fatal and unavoidable Q to R 7 +.

GRECO COUNTER GAMBIT.—It is no small satisfaction and reward to find that our presentation of this chivalrous old debut has elicited both interest and approval. One of our most faithful contributors says: "I have been very much interested in your analysis of the Greco Counter. You can count me among those who desire to improve their openings, for I recognize my deficiencies in this important branch, and shall take to heart your remarks of 17th ult. But I will say this much for anxious inquirers—please make us a codicil to your analysis, by giving Black's best method of procedure after White 3. K B to B 4."

CHESS IN KANSAS.—Kansas isn't bleeding as much as it was, evidently; indeed, it can't if it wants to, for chess, that "sovereign balm for every [mental] wound" is making decided strides in the "Unit of Measure State." Its latest conquest is in the city of Neodesha, where a club is organized under the presidency of Dr. Parker, and a chess column has been opened in The Register, in charge of Mr. Carpenter. He says: "Our games are all amateur, unless otherwise stated, and while they probably have more errors than 'professional' games, we propose to keep a 'stiff upper lip,' and howl for 'em." The rhetoric is a little pronounced, perhaps, but that's the right spirit, Bro. C.; success to you.

CHESS IN NEW ORLEANS.—The handicap seems to be getting on well. Baron der Lasa's stop was too short, and he was too busy to play much chess. One game each with those approved veterans, Messrs. Maurian and McConnell, both of whom won, appears to be the sum total.

CHESS IN BOSTON.—The next annual meeting of the Mass. Chess Association was called for Fast Day, April 5, at 9 o'clock A. M. On this occasion was to be played the fourth grand tournament of the Association, under the same rules and regulations as the last occasion so recently reported.

CHESS IN THE CITY.—Our contributor, C. Devide, informs us that he recently played a peripatetic match vs. the Labourdonnais C. C. of Columbia Coll., with eighteen antagonists. Score: Won, 17; lost 1.... The last team match, Columbia C. C. vs. Labourdonnais C. C., eight a side, the Columbias won by 6 to 2..... The sixth game, Delmar vs. Lipschuetz, was won by Mr. D., the seventh by Mr. L., making the score, Mr. L., 3; Mr. D., 4..... Sixth Am. Ch. Congress fund, $4,344..... The Columbia Ch. Chronicle is getting way up to high water mark, and if it doesn't increase in stature, it grows in favor with all the (chess) people.

CHESS ABROAD.—At the last moment for this copy a huge bundle of foreign matter came upon our table, which we can only touch in a few salient points. The Glasgow C. C. so flourishes in its new quarters that its fightingest members have divided into two teams, first and second, and have laid out a great season's campaign..... Dundee vs. Aberdeenshire, eleven a side; score: D., 15; A., 5. But they had a jolly good time, and the Shire players cry: "Nane the waur; we'll try ye again."..... Sheriff Speens has entered the ranks of the peripatetics, and with brilliant success, too. Chess has entered the House of Commons, and that to stay, evidently. Its civilizing effects on the blatant, quarrelsome members cannot be doubted. Our own House better follow the example..... North London vs. Cambridge University, ten a side. Score: Cam. U., 49½; N. L., 39½. So fine a score vs. so powerful a club was thought to augur well for Cam. in its impending annual tilt with the "dark blues." We are sorry to note the prolonged absence of Mr. Stevens from N. L.'s first team, for we fear it argues the serious illness of that distinguished amateur..... The Congress at Bradford, Aug. 6, is surely to be a great affair. First prize, £80, for which we hear Capt. Mackenzie is going to contend.

CHECKERS.

To Correspondents.

J. YEIDEL.—Thanks for two fine positions, which will soon be published.

WILLIAM KENNEDY.—Your position is a neat stroke, and will be published. Many thanks, and let us hear from you again.

"SARATOGA."—Humming, smoking, or performing any act to distract players would not be permitted in a first class club room.

D. S.—Your position is too obvious. By all means, try again.

ACCORDING to The Checkerist, Mr. Eldridge, who is seventy-nine years old, or thirteen years older than Mr. Martins, has been making it very lively for the players of Atalanta, Ga., easily winning against some of the strongest.

A NEW WORK on Checkers is soon to be published by Frank Dunne of Warrington, Eng. The author promises to make it "the most readable, interesting and instructive work on the game ever published." We hope he may succeed.

THE Checkerist, edited by Stephen Terry, at Tavares, Fla., is "all checkers," and good checkers; and we "like its style" exceedingly.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER

THE FRANK QUEEN PUBLISHING CO. (Limited), PUBLISHERS.

SATURDAY, APRIL 7, 1888.

The actual weekly sales of THE NEW YORK CLIPPER are now and always have been considerably in excess of the combined actual sales of all the other ten cent dramatic and sporting papers in America.

Moreover, THE NEW YORK CLIPPER is the oldest theatrical and sporting journal published in this country.

Plain Talk from the West.

From the St. Louis Daily Hotel Reporter.

The "old reliable" NEW YORK CLIPPER commenced its thirty-sixth year with the issue of March 17. It has weathered many a gale of opposition, and stands first and foremost as the dramatic and sporting newspaper of the age. It has always been conservative, and never stoops to vituperation or blackmail. You can patronize it, abuse it or leave it alone, and it comes out in New York every Wednesday morning with from sixteen to twenty pages filled with the latest news, arranged in the most concise shape. No manager could rest satisfied until he had seen it, and any actor or actress would give more for a sentence of praise in THE CLIPPER than a half column puff in any dramatic paper published. Long may it ride buoyantly on the crest of public opinion.

A MAN OF NOTE GONE.

Benjamin F. Brady, who died at his residence in this city on Friday, March 30, was once a conspicuous figure in rowing circles in this country. Imbued by nature with a strong love for aquatic sports, he early associated himself with one of the clubs whose boat houses were then located at the foot of Christopher Street, and became quite expert in the use of both sculls and sweeps. He was one of the founders, twenty odd years ago, of the Hudson Amateur Rowing Association, the first organization of the kind formed in this country. It was made up of the Atalanta, Gulick, Waverly and Columbia Boat Clubs of this city, Mutuals and Beaverwycks of Albany, the Atlantics of Hoboken, Vespers and Palisades of Yonkers, and the Hudsons of Jersey City. He was the first president and commodore of the association, and it was mainly through his personal efforts that the initial regatta, held in September, 1867, resulting in a brilliant success. He was an enthusiast, and during the time that he remained a prominent member of the organization he labored earnestly with both voice and pen, while contributing freely of his means, for the advancement of its interests, which meant the strengthening of the hold secured by the cause of amateur oarsmanship in the affections of the American people. The deceased gentleman was also mainly instrumental in the formation of the Saratoga Amateur Rowing Association, of which he was elected commodore in recognition of his ability and services, and during the existence of that organization he directed its affairs in a very satisfactory manner. His intimate acquaintance with the rules governing boat racing, his sound judgment, firmness and general knowledge, rendered his services as referee in great demand, and he officiated in that capacity in a number of important match races and regattas, both amateur and professional, always giving complete satisfaction. For some years previous to his demise, however, he was but seldom seen at aquatic gatherings, spending a part of his time abroad, and devoting the remainder to the pursuit of his profession as an ornamental penman and engrosser, in which connection he did a great deal of skillful work for the Board of Aldermen and other branches of the City Government. Generous, warm hearted, with a genial disposition and inclined to conviviality, he had a wide circle of friends, who will hear of his death with feelings of sincerest sorrow. His funeral, which took place on Sunday, was largely attended, delegations being present from the Masonic fraternity and the Mystic Shrine.

JIM MACE, who in his prime was rated the "cleverest man in the world" in the skillful use of the weapons provided by nature, but who is now troubled with that slowness that comes with age, has challenged Charley Mitchell to box a certain number of rounds with gloves. The ex-champion is rather "short of change" just now, and is accordingly anxious to effect such a meeting with the man whom the great and only Sullivan failed to defeat in the ring; but Mitchell does not appear to regard the proposition favorably. This is probably not because he dreads the result of such an encounter, but for the reason that he cannot perceive that there is aught for him to gain by engaging in it, even though he should demonstrate his superiority over the "old 'un."

THE opening of the trout season was celebrated by the customary interesting exhibit of specimens of different varieties of the silvery shiners, from various sections, on the stands of Commissioner Blackford and other prominent dealers at Fulton Market. The fine display excited the admiration of throngs of ladies and gentlemen, whose attention was especially attracted by a handsome line of rainbow trout contributed by the Southside Club of Long Island, whose ponds are fairly alive with the beauties. Since Sunday morning last the streams and ponds in this vicinity have been well worked by lovers of the sport.

A Straw from Texas.

From Our Galveston, Tex., Correspondent.

After a thorough canvass I find that the sale of THE CLIPPER in this city is more than double that of all the other dramatic papers combined.

THE PRIZE RING.

Owing to the fact that Mitchell's nimbleness enabled him to make a stand off when he encountered Sullivan on French soil, many of the American's disappointed friends appear to consider that the time has arrived when a reduction in the dimensions of the regulation prize ring is imperatively necessary. It is evident, however, that those who clamor for a change have obtained their knowledge of P. R. matters chiefly in the modern school of three minute rounds, limited fighting space, and slugging of the purest and simplest kind. They lose sight of the fact that the Sullivan-Mitchell meeting furnishes a notable exception, the annals of pugilism failing to chronicle any other engagement precisely similar to it, and that, therefore, the character of that contest does not justify a demand for a change from old and tried methods. An experience extending far beyond the period when the Queensberry rules for endurance became popular convinces us that the only rules that afford a satisfactory test of the qualities that combine to produce a first class pugilist are those adopted by the British Pugilistic Benevolent Association, which, of course, provide for a ring twenty-four feet square. These rules were framed only after mature deliberation by men of intelligence and much practical experience, at a time when the institution of pugilism was in a flourishing condition in Great Britain. In the days of Figg and Broughton, as at the present time, however, the pugilistic art had many bitter opponents, and their rallying cry then, as now, was "brutality." It is reasonable to presume that in drafting rules for the government of fistic contests the members of the B. P. B. A. were actuated by a desire to divest such encounters, so far as possible, of their more objectionable features. In fixing upon twenty-four feet square as the size of the roped inclosure they certainly went far toward eliminating therefrom the element of brutality, by giving the combatants sufficient space for the exercise of generalship and skill in evasion, while assisting very materially to equalize the chances in battles where there was considerable disparity in the size and weight of the principals. Were the arena but sixteen-feet square, the smaller man, as in the case of Mitchell with Sullivan, would be placed at a great disadvantage, having to depend upon the chance of accident or foul to win, owing to being heavily handicapped by the greater avoirdupois and superior strength of an adversary whom he could not avoid without violating the rules, and with whom he was physically unable to cope with hope of success. To reduce the dimensions of the "squared circle" to sixteen feet would, indeed, be simply setting a premium on brute strength, would render well nigh unnecessary a knowledge of the art of boxing, so far as ring fighting is concerned, and would deprive the P. R. of whatever redeeming features its supporters claim for it. As is the case in too many of the glove contests of the present day, muscular force and hitting power would be mainly relied upon to win battles, boxing skill and cleverness in getting out of danger counting for nothing. A fight under such conditions would prove scarcely more interesting to the lovers of genuine boxing, who find pleasure in a contest which brings into active play all those qualities included in the make up of an accomplished pugilist, than would a regular rough and tumble fight, with all that that implies. Very large and heavy men are as a rule slow in their movements, and the fact that the twenty-four foot inclosure enables a courageous and scientific man of average size to worry an adversary largely his superior in height, weight, reach and physical strength until he has, in P. R. parlance, "brought him down to his own weight," thus equalizing chances, is surely a powerful argument against the change in the fighting surface advocated by those who have not given the subject careful consideration.

HARRY PRICHARD, the well known angler, died at his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., on Sunday, April 1, from pneumonia. For two years he held the championship for fly casting, and was one of the most enthusiastic devotees of the "gentle art." It is a rather curious coincidence that his death should have occurred on the very day upon which the trouting season opened.

From The New Orleans Picayune.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER ANNUAL for 1888 has been received at The Picayune office. This almanac contains a most valuable record of theatrical, musical and sporting events, performances, deaths, with valuable information concerning the earlier days of the stage.

THEY ARE ALL TALKING ABOUT IT.

From The Albany Times.

Another historian of the American theatre is in the field—Col. T. Allston Brown of New York; or, rather, he has taken the field for the second time, as his History of the American Stage, a collection of biographical sketches printed nearly twenty years ago, is well known. He is now, however, publishing a revised version in THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, in which he antedates the recently published discoveries of Mr. Seilhamer, and wins back for New York the honor of being the birthplace of the American drama, which it, will be remembered, Mr. Dunlap claimed for Williamsburg, Va., in 1752. Mr. Seilhamer discovered a performance of "Cato" in Philadelphia in August, 1749, and now Col. Brown establishes by a copy of Bradford's New York Gazette of Oct. 8, 1733, that at that time there was a playhouse in the city where "Cato," "The Recruiting Officer," "The Beaux' Stratagem" and "The Busy Body" were announced; and he says that he has discovered an advertisement of a dramatic performance to be given in September, 1732; that the company was composed of regular actors just arrived from London; that assisted by amateurs they played, beginning the last week in September, 1732, three times a week for one month, and then closed for lack of support. Early in December of the same year they resumed and played till February, 1733, when they disbanded. Col. Brown gives an incomplete list of the company, but does not give his authority. Unless Mr. Seilhamer can offset this by still deeper researches, the palm must go to New York.

From The Stage News.

Col. T. Allston Brown has begun to publish in THE CLIPPER a series of historical articles on the theatres in this country. In his first article, Col. BROWN brings clear proof that the first place in America where the English drama was brought out by professional actors was in New York, September, 1732. Mr. Dunlap, in his History of the American Theatre, says: "On Sept. 15, 1752, at Williamsburg, the capital of Virginia, the first play performed in America by a company of comedians was represented to a delighted audience," and James Rees says that "a portion of Hallam's troupe, combined with several artists engaged for America by John Moody, arrived in Philadelphia about 1746-7, and opened the first theatre dedicated to the dramatic muse with a well organized company in the colonies." Mr. Brown has, however, been unable to find just where the first theatre in America was located.

From Eddy's Weekly Squib.

Where was the first dramatic performance in America given? Authorities have disagreed, but Col. T. Allston Brown is chief of them, and he provides new evidence that New York City has the honor. Col. Brown has begun to publish in THE CLIPPER a series of historical articles on the theatre in this country, and he first deals with this question of priority. He says: "In September, 1732, a company composed of regular actors just arrived from London, organized themselves for dramatic entertainments. They secured a large room in the upper part of a building, which was fitted up with a platform-stage and raised seats, capable of seating about four hundred people. They opened the last week in September, 1732, and played three times each week."

From The St. John Telegraph.

The best of journals, THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, opens its thirty-sixth volume with the addition of a new dress of type and several valuable features of news and comment. A specially desirable addition to its many attractions is Col. T. Allston Brown's "History of the American Theatre," which begins in this issue, and which is certain to fill an important place in literature.

Speaking of the old, reliable CLIPPER, one naturally thinks of THE CLIPPER ANNUAL for 1888, which is quite as comprehensive and accurate as the paper. Both are as necessary as pen and scissors to any well regulated newspaper office, and the man who relies on their facts and opinions will never get left.

From The New Orleans Daily States.

A complete history of the American theatre from the eminent pen of Col. T. Allston Brown, who has been more than thirty-two years collecting the valuable material for the stupendous work, is at present being published in that widely known and thoroughly responsible dramatic journal, THE NEW YORK CLIPPER. This useful and enterprising paper entered upon its thirty-sixth year of usefulness on the 17th of this month in entirely new dress, and, as usual, was brimful of valuable information.

From the Rockford, Ill., Morning Star.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER has entered the thirty-sixth year of its prosperous career. It is the peer of dramatic newspapers, and its authority pertaining to legitimate sport, as well as to the stage, is unquestioned. THE CLIPPER ANNUAL for 1888 contains among its other valuable information a compiled history of the American stage from the year 1686 up to the present time. It is a book that will be hailed with delight by the lover of the drama.

From the Brantford, Can., Expositor.

The last number of THE NEW YORK CLIPPER inaugurated its thirty-sixth volume, and, in an enlarged form, with a very handsome new Spring suit, it maintains its reputation as the best conducted paper in the business in America. The opening chapters of a deeply interesting History of the American Theatre appear, and the contents, as usual, constitute a very correct mirroring of the dramatic and sporting doings of the week.

From The London, Ont., Advertiser.

We have received a copy of the NEW YORK CLIPPER of March 17, and cannot refrain from giving it a few words of praise. In this issue is begun a history of American theatres, by Col. T. Allston Brown. It is highly interesting, and no doubt will continue to grove more so as the history proceeds. An entire new outfit of type, with twenty pages of reading matter, are proofs that THE CLIPPER is prospering.

From The Boston Journal.

Col. T. Allston Brown, whose interesting history of the theatre in America is now being published in THE CLIPPER, proves that the first regular performance in this country was not in 1752, at Williamsburg, as Dunlap states, but in 1732, at New York.

From The Newark Sunday Call.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, the leading dramatic authority of the country, is publishing an interesting history of the American theatre by Col. T. Allston Brown.

From The Boston Herald.

THE CLIPPER has commenced the publication of a very interesting history of the American theatres, by Col. T. Allston Brown.

LARRY DONOVAN, who has become famous, so far as fame may be achieved by success in accomplishing hazardous and foolhardy feats, has just demonstrated his character for perseverance and determination. After being repeatedly warned by the authorities not to attempt the dangerous performance of leaping from the Clifton Suspension Bridge, near Bristol, Eng., the highest structure of the kind in the United Kingdom, being 245ft. above high water, he made the jump on the evening of March 21, having evaded the vigilance of the police by concealing himself in the bottom of a carriage, in which he was conveyed to the centre of the bridge. This tops all bridge jumping records, and it was the knowledge of this fact that impelled the venturesome Larry to make the perilous attempt. He did not escape scot free, physically, this time, for although he was able to swim ashore, he had to be conveyed to the Bristol Hospital for treatment. His injuries were probably trifling, however, as the cable has since been silent regarding him, from which it may also be inferred that the authorities will not punish Donovan for disobeying their injunctions. Now that he has achieved this unparalleled feat, it is presumable that he will be content to hereafter make a livelihood by legitimate means.

MALCOLM W. FORD, who, after achieving the distinction of being proclaimed the champion all around athlete of America, was disqualified as an amateur by the National Association for alleged participation in professional sports for money prizes, has been reinstated by that body. It had long been known that the Executive Committee were in favor of restoring him to his rights as an amateur, provided that he would make the necessary application. He was loth to make the request, however, for the reason that he has always averred that he had been unjustly punished for an offence that he did not commit, and because he regarded the course of the committee toward him as plainly indicative of malicious persecution. His protestations of innocence of any wrong were generally believed by amateur athletes, who sympathised with him, and all will be gratified to know that he has been rehabilitated. Although Ford has not competed in games of any kind since the date of his disqualification, he has kept up practice pretty regularly, except during the time that he was confined to his house through illness, and it is probable that when he is again seen on the path and in the field he will be found to be quite as good a performer as at any time heretofore.

THE PROFESSIONAL BICYCLISTS John S. Prince and A. A. McCurdy are announced to ride a match race of ten miles, for an alleged stake of fifteen thousand dollars a side, in Kansas City on Saturday of the current week. Had these men acted wisely they would not have sent the ante up quite so high, for the figures given will certainly prevent all persons possessed of common sense, even though they may not be up to the tricks practiced by professional performers in the sporting line, from placing any confidence in the bona fide character of the alleged match, especially with the recent swindling arrangement between McCurdy and Whittaker in Minneapolis fresh in their memory. The fact that they have selected Kansas City as the scene of their operations certainly reflects strongly on the gullibility of that community.

Bright Boston Journalists.

From Our Boston, Mass., Correspondent.

THE CLIPPER in its new, bright "togs," inaugurating its thirty-sixth volume, gained instant approbation in Boston among the newspaper fraternity—and the latter certainly know and appreciate a good thing when they see it. Dramatic editors here were quick to place Col. Brown's able and comprehensive review of the American stage at its true value—well nigh inestimable. It is not to be gainsaid they will follow Col. Brown's article to the end. They have use for it.

A Pill for Boasters to Swallow.

From our Knoxville, Tenn., Correspondent.

Our newsdealer informs me that THE CLIPPER was the only New York paper that came through on time, regardless of the blizzard, and that he sells three CLIPPERS to one of any other paper of its kind that he handles.

THE TRIGGER.

A GUN CLUB was organized in Pullman, Ill., a few days ago, with these officers: President, Dr. R. L. Walston; vice president, C. M. Allison; secretary, J. W. Hughes; treasurer, P. H. Breuck.

THE Massachusetts Rifle Association will hold their Spring prize meeting at Walnut Hill range on May 30, 31, June 1, 2.

CARVER VS. CHICK.—A large crowd assembled at the Agricultural Park, Los Angeles, Cal., on March 18, to witness the pigeon match between Dr. Carver, the famous rifle shot, and Martin Chick, champion wing shot of Southern California. The conditions were one hundred birds each, thirty-one yards rise. Hurlingham rules to govern, for an advertised purse of $500. The result was a surprise. The usual rule was reversed, as in this case the Chick got the best of the Carver, the doctor killing but 90 birds, while his opponent scored 91, thus winning the match. Carver used a 7¾lb, No. 12 guage gun, while Chick shot with a 9¼lb, No. 10 bore gun. Chick displayed remarkable nerve.

FRED EER did some very fine shooting at Lafayette, Ind., last week. He undertook to break 475 out of 500 Cleveland Standard Targets for a wager. On March 26 he shot at 200, standing at sixteen yards; on the following day he shot at the same number, at eighteen yards, and on Wednesday he shot at 100, the Peters cartridge, which does away with the crimp, being used on each occasion. He broke the first one hundred in succession, ninety-six out of the second hundred, ninety-seven out of the third, ninety-nine out of the fourth, and ninety-eight out of the fifth, making a total of 490 broken.

THE second competition for the Boyd Cup in Montreal came off March 17. Mr. Cameron, the champion of Canada, acted as referee. There were seven teams. Score: Cote St. Paul, 38; Lachine, 32; St. Laurent, 30; Dominion, 28; St. Laurent (second team), 27; Cote St. Paul, 21; St. Hubert, 18.

R. E. SHELDON of the Cleveland Gun Club and Al. Bandle of Cincinnati shot a match at fifty Peoria blackbirds each, for the championship of the State of Ohio, on March 22. Each man shot on his own grounds, and the result was in favor of Sheldon by a score of 43 to 29.

LOUIS RUBENSTEIN and J. Allen Lowe, of the M. A. A. A., had a shooting match March 17 at the Cote-des-Neiges Club House, Can., and made so many bull's eyes that they could not beat each other. They used a 32-calibre Smith & Wesson revolver, at 15 paces.

THE Roseville (N. J.) Gun Club was organized a few days ago, with the following officers: President, Ira P. Smith; vice president, George H. Gimms; secretary, David H. Greene; treasurer, John H. Fredericks.

W. E. LIMBERG defeated Joe H. in a match at fifty pairs of American clay pigeons, National rules, at Cincinnati, O., March 20; score, 75 to 56.

1,983 ANSWERS!

It is the custom of the big daily newspapers to boast of the returns made to their advertisers. We deem it about time to remark that THE CLIPPER, as a medium, has no peer in any list, weekly, daily or monthly. Manager Charles Andress voluntarily offers proof of this. He writes from Winchester, Va., under date of Jan. 27: "I have received, in response to my page advertisement of Dec. 31, from professional people, managers of opera-houses, etc. And they are still coming in! I hardly think it necessary for me to add that I think THE CLIPPER the paper for the profession."

A POOR WAY TO GAIN NOTORIETY.

CARROLL JOHNSON

DID NOT ENGAGE

BILLY EMERSON,

But to the contrary, MR. EMERSON becomes a third partner in the profits of our firm, at Memphis, Tenn., April 2, '88, and will continue as such during MR. SLAVIN'S absence. MR. BIDWELL of New Orleans telegraphed us that we could get MR. EMERSON for one week at his theatre, but as his salary is so large, I objected, and made the proposition to MR. JOHNSON and E. M. Castine, our manager, that as MR. SLAVIN would not be with us, to ask MR. EMERSON if he would accept a third of the profits instead of this salary, to which MR. BIDWELL answered O. K. Now, this is the way MR. EMERSON comes into this Show. This is not the first time that swelled heads have looked for a reputation in an underhand manner, and in looking for glory over the shoulders of those who stand upon the pinnacle of fame far above them. MR. JOHNSON engages nobody without my consent, and my professional friends will find out the opening of the coming Season whose head was used as a fish pond for those anglers of other people's brains. I have not been blowing my horn making bluffs, but have fired my Winchester through the mails to secure what I consider the most novel and complete Minstrel Show of the Age Wait until the flood comes and observe who does the swimming. If anybody doubts the above remarks, they are at liberty to see the contracts signed by MR. JOHNSON and myself in regard to MR. EMERSON. Please don't shove me. I am going fast enough. The streets are wide enough for two. Most respectfully yours,
